Welcome to Rapture, a metropolis that lies in one of the most remote locations possible, the bottom of the Atlantic. Its objectivist founder, Andrew Ryan, made the city with the greatest and the brightest in mind, a city where the artist would not fear the censor, where the scientist would be bound by petty morality, where the great would not be constrained by the small. Among the many technological wonders in this City is a substance known as Adam, found in sea slugs on the bottom of the Atlantic. It acts as a benign cancer, destroying native cells and replacing them with unstable versions of them, which in the end gives its user abilities that can only be described as Supernatural. The three primary form of Adam are: Plasmids, which are comparable to “spells” in their function; Tonics, a passive form of Adam that grants active improvements to the human body in general; and Eve which acts a Mitochondrial boost to the unstable cells, powering Plasmids.

However, all is not perfect in this new Eden. The nature of objectivism has its downside in that it leaves the poor to misery, and the psychologist and collectivist Sofia Lamb is beginning to stir up the lower classes against Ryan. On top of this, the Head of Fontaine Futuristics, Frank Fontaine, is up to something big, and his company's discovery of Adam will probably play a large part in it. Your knowledge, skills, and powers might be enough to save the city from its downward spiral. However, they may not be as reliable as you might think, as the events of the future are not set in stone.

Your adventure begins on New Year's Day, 1953.
You also have 1,000 CP to start you off.

Starting Location:

Rapture though large, has a very well built Monorail System and several smaller Tram Systems that allow for easy travel.

Roll 1D8 or Choose a Starting Location.

1- Apollo Square: A hub of transportation next to one of the largest districts for the lower classes. Nearby is Fontaine's House for the Poor and Artemis Suites.

2- Arcadia: A botanic garden owned by Andrew Ryan, which supplies much of the oxygen of the city. Just be sure you aren't caught without a city.

3- Fontaine Futuristics: The headquarters of the second most powerful man in Rapture. It is also the center of his Adam development.

4- Fort Frolic: The main entertainment district of Rapture; home to casinos, theaters, and some of the best luxury shops Rapture has to offer.

5- Hephaestus: The headquarters of Ryan Industries and home to the first Thermal Energy Plant made in the city. It also doubles as a factory.

6- Medical Pavilion: The former center of all the Rapture's medical needs made obsolete by the regenerative power of Adam. It has been converted into a Cosmetic Surgery Center.

7- Neptune's Bounty: Owned by Fontaine, it is one of Rapture's top fishing factories. There has been rumors that less than legal business is conducted there.

8- Olympus Heights: The place of residence for Rapture's rich. Contains both Mercury Suites and Athena's Glory, with Mercury Suites being owned by Fontaine.

Origin: Roll 1D8+21 for your age. You keep your current gender. Or choose to change both for 100 CP.

Along with this, you may choose a new identity. This new identity is more than some paperwork or disguise, as you gain all the memories your persona has. Though you still will be yourself, expect your persona to conflict with your own. You still need to find a job however.

Laborer: Free. One of the largest percentages of the population, you should find it somewhat easy to find a job. A high paying job, however, is most likely out of your reach. The Benefit is that your persona doesn't have any memories attached to it.

- + You have no memories other than your own.
- Poor living conditions with poor pay.
- / +Living conditions can improve if you prove yourself worthy of it.

Soldier: -100 CP. Even under the sea there is still a need for one of the oldest trades on Earth. You might find yourself employed by the Council or as a Security Officer for one of the major corporations.

- + You are physically well-built and have combat training.
- + Decent living conditions with decent pay.
- You will be right there when shit hits the fan.

Specialist: -100 CP. You are a scientist, a doctor, an inventor, an artist, or a musician. Choose one. They are all valuable fields to be in with good pay, if you have the skill.

- / + Lifestyle and wealth fluctuates based on ability, from middle class to the finest lifestyle available.

Businessman: -100 CP. Your typical office desk job, though in Rapture it somewhat acts as if it is fused with a political position. It is a ticket to making it to the good life, if you prove you have the skill.

- / + Lifestyle and wealth fluctuates based on ability, from middle class to the finest lifestyle available.

Adam, Abilities, and Skills: You start with what skills you already have, but you can always add onto it...

Drawbacks: You can take only two. Note: They override Powers.

Before you choose however, there is something you must know about Adam. Adam, due to the same properties that give it its power, also causes a various amount of mutations to growth rate of cells. This leads to all sorts of problems, from a small deformity on the nose to an entire arm being made unusable, and can even cause cancer. Also, Adam causes Schizophrenia and stores the memories of those who have it in them, leaving behind a genetic trail that can be received by another who has Adam.

Adam is also an addictive substance, and if you don't splice (a term for the injecting Adam into the body) regularly or in small amounts, your body begins to shut down. The more you splice however, the more Adam you need to put into your body to keep it going.

Claustrophobia: +100 CP. Rapture, despite being relatively large is compact. I hope you don't mind having a lot of breathing room... Oh Wait.

Addiction: +100 CP. You are addicted to some substance, ranging from alcohol to opium.

Rejection: +100 CP. Your immune system, for some reason, actively fights Adam in your body. You cannot take any Plasmid or Tonic related options.

Aquaphobia: +200 CP. For some reason, you came to this city when you have an irrational fear of water. Well, now it might be more rational.

Adaptation: +200 CP. Mutation are of significantly increased severity and frequency. On the up side, all your Plasmids and Tonics are more powerful.

Schizophrenia: +200 CP. Though minor at first, it will grow worse if you splice too much. Also, going into art might not be the best idea.

Cancer: +300 CP. Pretty much incurable at this time, though that could change in the greatest city in the world. Won't kill you, but enjoy being in agonizing pain. Just be sure to limit your splicing significantly.

Control Switch: +300 CP. You don't know who, but someone, somewhere, has control over you, which they activate by uttering a simple phrase. It can be removed, but good luck finding someone who won't use the opportunity for themselves.

Burial at Sea: +300 CP. You have six years taken off your time. You now begin on New Year's Day 1959.

The End: After you reach New Year's Day 1963, All of Adam's side effects and any drawbacks you have taken are revoked. You are also given three options.

Return Home: Go back to your Home Universe with everything you have gained. You should probably do your best to hide anything Adam related you have, or at least at first.

Stay Here: If your life here is better than yours back home, or you have other arrangements, this is the choice for you. However, you still experience all of Adam's side effects.

Continue: You move onwards to the next world, keeping everything you have gained.

Notes:

1- The reason CP costs are divided into 1/4ths rather than 1/2ths is because it would be clunky implementing Plasmids and Tonics into the CYOA. This isn't something I will change.

2- Plasmid and Tonic Upgrades work in this manner. When the new Upgrades is made you will be one of the first to receive it. Upgraded versions are more powerful and sometimes have special abilities.

3- Something important to note. You remember that cryptic sentence at the end of the second paragraph? You actually have a choice in what happens event-wise in your stay.

A. Atlas Shrugged Mode: The Events of the city take place as they did in the game, with the exception of you of course. Anything you do, and you do alone, will affect the city. This also includes reaction to your actions.

B. Frank Gorland Mode: The events of the city are completely randomized, though with cause of course. You will still have direct influence on the city.

C. Sofia's Lamb Mode: Constants. Constants everywhere. This is the equivalent to railroading, with you as the oppressed player, and Levin I mean the Demiurge as the GM. You can still succeed, but don't expect it to matter!

4- The events of Burial At Sea will only occur if you want them to, excluding Frank Gorland Mode.

5. This was made in loving memory of Elizabeth Dewitt.
