

*When misrule takes its place at the eight corners of the world
When the Brass Tower walks and Time is reshaped
When the thrice-blessed fail and the Red Tower trembles
When the Dragonborn Ruler loses his throne, and the White Tower falls
When the Snow Tower lies sundered, kingless, bleeding
The World-Eater wakes, and the Wheel turns upon the Last Dragonborn.*

It is 4E 201, and Tamriel is barely recovering from the Great War some 26 years before between an Empire in decline and the burgeoning Aldmeri Dominion. Each province of Tamriel seems to be grimly marching towards another war. The war between the Dominion and the Empire may have gone cold but tensions are continuing to rise and the Great War is beginning to feel like a precursor of something worse.

In Skyrim a civil war is beginning and soon Alduin the World Eater will return and begin to resurrect the dragons to help him fulfil his purpose - to dominate and devour the world.

YOU HAVE 1000 CHOICE POINTS. SPEND THEM WISELY

SECTION ONE

IDENTITY

Roll 2D8+21 to determine your age
You may change gender for 100 CP

Wait. You there, step forward. Who are you?

You must choose an identity which will dictate your history and perhaps your role in Tamriel. Choosing an Identity is free.

DROP-IN: +No memory set altering your actions.
-No history or friends in this world.

Banging and shouting wakes you up, you are lying inside a cell. After a few minutes a man approaches scuffed up and tired but looking pleased with himself. He explains that the fort you have been imprisoned in has changed hands, says he doesn't much care how you transgressed against his deceased enemies, opens your cell and politely asks you to get out of his new fort.

WARRIOR: +Martial training, skilled with one weapon of choice and proficient in either Light, Medium or Heavy Armour. You're tough, have a cool head in a fight and have some strong friendships born in battle.
-You have a fair few memories of your allies getting killed in front of you.

You grew up in a land ravaged by war and chose the only trade that you knew would always be in demand. You fought well enough (or were lucky enough) to survive any fights you've been in with nothing but a few scars. Powerful factions are always in need of a good soldier and you've caught the eye of a couple.

THIEF: +Skilled burglar, good with lockpicks, daggers and bows. Know how to move quietly and go unnoticed in a crowd.
-Guards in your area are somewhat suspicious of you.

What belongs to who gets a little hazy when it feels like everyone is fighting everyone else. It started with some poaching here and there to stay fed when food got difficult to come by, then the game got scarce and you started breaking into the houses of those who were long gone and probably dead anyway. Nowadays thieving is just second nature to you and you've not been caught

MAGE: +You have a talent for magic and have a fair amount of skill and experience in one of the schools of magic.
-People have had negative opinions about mages since the Oblivion Crisis in a lot of areas.

You had a different upbringing to most and spent much of it reading books and practising the use of spells. One of your parents was a talented mage and taught you as much as they could before they died. Now you're out on your own and you may not have much in terms of belongings or prestige yet but a talented spellcaster is often in demand.

SECTION TWO RACE

You may choose a Race freely. Each Race has a different homeland, racial ability and appearance.

ALTMER

The Altmer are tall, golden skinned, elves from the Summerset Isles. They are the most naturally attuned to magic and are as such capable of learning it most easily. They are resistant to disease and have the longest lifespan. The Thalmor (elf supremacists) are currently the dominant faction amongst the Altmer.

IMPERIAL

The cosmopolitan humans native to the province of Cyrodiil. Known for their charm and skill at diplomacy as well as their skill and discipline as rank and file soldiers.

ARGONIAN

A reptilian race from Black Marsh. Unrelated to either Man or Mer and as comfortable in water as on dry land. Covered in scales that make you a little tougher than other races. Argonians are for the most part treated poorly outside of their homeland.

KHAJIIT

The cat-people of Elsweyr. Known for their natural agility and stealth. Suspected as thieves by members of the other races. Default is Cathay, you may choose another phase of the moon if you wish (no Manes). You get tailored armour if you choose one of the sentient cat ones.

BOSMER

The small, agile Wood-Elves of Valenwood. The greatest natural archers in all of Tamriel. Nimble and comfortable in the wild areas of the world.

NORD

The tall, hardy, fair skinned, fair haired men of Skyrim. Naturally large and strong. Resistant to the cold with a magical affinity for the frost. Known to be fierce warriors.

BRETON

Humans of high Rock with some Elf heritage. Have very slightly pointed ears. Eccentric and naturally skilled with magic. They have a natural resistance to magic.

ORSIMER

The Pariah folk, the Orcs of Orsinium are known to be large talented warriors and smiths. They are strong, courageous and fearsome when roused.

DUNMER

The ashen-skinned, red eyed, Dark-Elves of Morrowind. They possess a natural resistance to fire and heat. They are known for their strength, intelligence and quickness as well as their pride and unfriendliness.

REDGUARD

The dark-skinned men of Hammerfell. Naturally talented warriors known for their hardiness of constitution and their fleet feet. Their independent spirits make them better skirmishers than rank and file warriors.

SECTION THREE REGION

Races may choose their native region for free and Skyrim may be chosen freely.

It is otherwise 50 CP to choose or roll 1D10.

SUMMERSET ISLES

1.

The large, South-Westerly, island home of the Altmer and was recently renamed Alinor by the Thalmor. Full of idyllic pastures and clear plains and has several large cities with all manner of peculiar architecture. The Thalmor are firmly in control and the islands serve as a centre from which the Aldmeri Dominion plot against the Empire and all men.

CYRODIIL

The Imperial province in the centre of Tamriel. Predominantly temperate in climate with large cities including the vast Imperial City (the centre of the Empire). The cities here are in various states of disrepair since the Dominion's invasion and the once pleasant land has been ravaged by war.

BLACK MARSH

The dense swampland home of the Argonians to the South-East of Tamriel. A lush land filled with violently dangerous predators and poisonous plants. Wild and impossible to cultivate. Mostly tribal with some settlements. A faction called the An-Xileel came to prominence during the Oblivion Crisis and have led to Black Marsh's independence.

ELSWEYR

7.

The home of the Khajiit situated on the southern coast of Tamriel. There are only a few cities, the rest made up of arid badlands and subtropical forests. Elsweyr seceded from the Empire, split into two states (Anequina and Pelletine) and is now a pair of client states of the Aldmeri Dominion.

VALENWOOD

3.

A densely forested, subtropical province to the South-East of Tamriel. Home of the Bosmer. A sea of endless green, a maze of foliage with half-hidden cities growing like blooms from a flower and giant migratory trees. A Thalmor-backed coup forced the Empire out and the union of Valenwood and the Summerset Isles became the Aldmeri Dominion.

SKYRIM

The northernmost, cold and mountainous province of Skyrim – home to the Nords. Relatively mild southern regions and cold, permanently frozen areas to the North. High King Torygg was recently killed by Jarl Ulfric Stormcloak in a duel and civil war between the Empire loyalists and the Stormcloaks is brewing in Skyrim.

HIGH ROCK

4.

The Breton's home province to the North-West of Tamriel. The coastal regions are temperate with loose forests, further inland the region becomes more mountainous. It is landed in multiple large city-states. Still under the Empire's control after a war mostly fought in the other provinces.

ORSINIUM

The newly rebuilt (again) city-state and kingdom of Orsinium, now positioned between Hammerfell and Skyrim and has only been up for around 200 years as the previous one was sacked by the combined forces of Hammerfell and High Rock.

MORROWIND

5.

The North-East province is dominated by the volcanic island of Vvardenfell. The lands of Morrowind have unique and hostile climates and ecosystems. After a series of natural disasters devastated the land the Argonians invaded and took much of the province. The Dunmer held northern parts are now dominated by House Redoran.

HAMMERFELL

10.

Situated in the west of Tamriel and dominated by the vast Alik'r desert. The Redguards and other peoples who call it home live predominantly in the large port-cities and towns. Hammerfell is recovering from the Aldmeri occupation it has thrown off and is extremely bitter towards the Empire that sold the province to the Dominion for peace.

Hail Companion

Importing grants a Race, an Identity (each of your choice) and any freebies (including a Standing Stone) that come with them. 50 CP allows 1 import, 100 grants up to 4 and 200 grants 8. Each companion imported gains 500 CP to spend as you wish.

Alternatively (and for the same prices) you may create a new companion of your description with 500 CP to spend as you wish. You may choose the nature of your relationship and any companions created in this way will be both exceptionally loyal and have the unusual quality of being willing to go along with nearly anything you suggest as a course of action. You could for instance create a leal, patriotic and honourable Imperial Warrior that will not bat an eyelid when asked to accompany you to kill the Emperor.

You may instead take canon characters at the same prices if you can persuade them to come with you although they gain no CP.

50/100/200 CP

SECTION EIGHT PROPHECIES

You may take the place of a true hero. Each comes with a goal which once completed grants you a reward. Each has its risks. You have a time limit to complete this goal rather than the usual 10 years and after you have completed your goal you may choose to finish the jump at any time before then. Failure to complete your goal in the time limit results in failure of the jump. Prophecies can override Identity descriptions and your region. Prophecies with dark boxes have a time limit of 25 years, prophecies with light boxes have a time limit of 50 years.

Dovahkiin Requires: Thu'um

You were trying to cross the border into Skyrim when you were tossed into a wagon with some Nords and brought to Helgen by Imperial troops for summary execution. Just as your head was on the block a large black dragon appeared, allowed you to escape and put events in motion that are all going to involve you in some way. You have the soul of a dragon, are capable of absorbing a dragon's soul and your goal is to stop Alduin the World Eater from destroying the world. You're going to have to get souls to unlock words of power too.

REWARD: Your Thu'um is precise. You show great promise, Dragonborn. Political, magical and spiritual power seems to be naturally drawn to you and you have something of a sixth sense for the paths you can take to attain more.

Season Unending No requirements.

Skyrim is bleeding and you have picked your side. Choose the Imperial Legion or the Stormcloaks. You are among their ranks and seek to end the war decisively as you know further fighting is just around the corner and any blood spilt here weakens your country.

Skyrim is your home and you are proud to fight for it, unfortunately there are two popular interpretations of exactly what that means at this point in time. Your goal is to have your side win the Skyrim Civil War.

REWARD: When fighting for a cause or faction both you and your fellows are strengthened both in body and mind. Your will and resolve becomes iron and you collectively fight tooth and nail to achieve any goals your faction has set out.

Dawnguard No Requirements

Vampires are becoming ever bolder and without you Lord Harkon and the Volkihar Clan of vampires will succeed in blocking out the sun. Whether it was because you wanted a shiny new axe or because you really hate vampires you joined the Dawnguard almost as soon as a passing Orc asked you to. You are now in Fort Dawnguard (in South-East Skyrim) and awaiting orders as a man rushes in and says something has happened to the Vigilant of Stendarr. Your goal is to stop the sun from being blocked out.

REWARD: A fixer upper of a castle (or other large structure), a group of talented oddballs to staff it and a pack of trained and loyal dogs (or the closest thing there is to dogs) always end up in your possession somehow.

Volkihar

Requires Monster Lord (Vampire Lord)

You walk as a lion among sheep, men tremble at your approach, and you will never fear death again. You have recently been brought into the fold of the Volkihar Clan but their progenitor (Lord Harkon) is a fool and his plans may spell doom for you all. Your task is twofold—to destroy the Dawnguard and to usurp Lord Harkon as the master of Volkihar Castle and the leader of the Volkihar Clan.

REWARD: You can indefinitely animate existing gargoyles into your stone servants with a very small amount of magicka. They will follow any instructions as best they can but have limited intelligence.

Listener No Requirements

The Night Mother has spoken, the silence has been broken, a Listener has been chosen. You have been marked as the new Listener of the Dark Brotherhood. You begin in the home of a small child named Aventus Aretino in Windhelm and he has a job for you. Completing this job will result in your induction into the Dark Brotherhood. Your goal is to await the instruction of the Night Mother on her arrival and complete one of the most ambitious contracts in Brotherhood history—the assassination of Emperor Titus Mede II.

REWARD: A certain unusually durable black horse with red eyes, the ability to summon the ghost of one Lucien Lachance and a small replica of the Night Mother's sarcophagus that whispers to you the names and locations of those who would pay for your 'services'.

Destroy the Dark Brotherhood! No Requirements

After killing somebody or other (for the common good, of course) you were kidnapped, brought to a shack in the woods and told to kill some people you didn't know by a blonde woman sitting on a bookcase. You killed her (obviously) and realised she must be working for the Dark Brotherhood. After a conversation with your local Penitus Oculatus agent you took it upon yourself to root them out once and for all. Your goal is to destroy the Dark Brotherhood.

REWARD: You find that any attempts to assassinate or kill you surreptitiously are much more likely to fail by random chance. Assassins become bizarrely likely to trip over chairs, accidentally splutter as a fly goes in their mouths, slip on banana peels, etc.

Forsworn Requires: Breton, Imperial or Nord

While you may resemble one of the more distinct races of man you are in fact a Reachman (as is instantly obvious by your tribal tattoos and distinctive clothing). For two years during the Great War your people managed to throw off your Nord oppressors and ruled the Reach (southwestern Skyrim) in peace, this was put to an end when Ulfric Stormcloak retook Markarth and your people fled into the mountains where they have remained, their king in chains. Your goal is to reclaim Markarth and attain independence for the Reach.

REWARD: Instead of a heart you have the seed of a Briarheart. This grants you near limitless stamina and makes you much harder to kill. You also know the ritual for replacing other people's hearts with these seeds and may, in time, learn to make other organs redundant.

High King No Requirements

Tamriel has been... mismanaged lately. An awful lot of people have died for causes that most people don't really seem to care that much about. You figure you can do a better job and have decided to rule your province (either as part of the Empire/Dominion or as an independent state). Your goal is to become the leader of any of the provinces of Tamriel.

REWARD: People think you must be the start of a great new dynasty when you take charge. Everyone but your enemies will be on board and think you will mean good things for your territory until you do something that indicates otherwise.

St. Veloth

Requires: Dunmer

You grew up with stories of the great Dunmer heroes and gods and the damage done to your homeland filled you with drive and ambition rather than the apathy and sadness that has infected so many of your people. The fires in Morrowind are dying down and it is time for you to go back to your homeland and reclaim the province as a whole. Your goal is to take and garrison each major settlement that was either abandoned by the Dunmer or invaded.

REWARD: You are supernaturally persuasive and successful whenever you attempt to get your people to either exodus or change religion.

Thalmor No More

No Requirements

Not only did they start a war, destabilise a continent and cause countless deaths but they're just so damn snooty about it and it will not stand. Lots of people dislike the Thalmor but aren't willing to do anything about it. Not you though, you hate them enough to do something about it no matter how bad an idea that might be. Your goal is to make sure the Thalmor are no longer the dominant faction in any of Tamriel's provinces.

REWARD: When you truly hate somebody or something you find you have a blistering insight into their strengths and weaknesses. You also have no trouble at all getting people to believe you when you warn them they are in danger should they be.

SECTION NINE FLAWS

You may take up to 600 CP worth of flaws.

Lost Legends

If this is not your first trip to Nirn you may choose to arrive in the same world you left. Bear in mind that time has a tendency to distort fact and the world will likely have changed while you were away. If you choose the same race as you did in another TES jump you may even retain the same identity and people will likely justify your time away as a long journey to Akavir or the work of a Daedric Prince. Should you take a Prophecy your legacy from a previous jump may still exist but will not noticeably aid or hinder you in your task.

+0 CP

Arrow to the Knee

Everyone has the same anecdotes and delights in telling you in conversation and as you walk passed.

+100 CP

Puzzled

You will frequently come across exactly the same puzzles that need to be completed in order for you to get what you want and you will be totally stumped for a long time every time. Nobody else is capable of completing them either for some reason.

+100 CP

The Curse of the Dwemer

You cannot ever acknowledge your belief in a deity and if a conversation about religion (or casual reference to religion) begins nearby you will have the strongest urge to interrupt and insult their intelligence.

+100 CP

Talos Worshipper

You're completely dedicated to Talos, will be hunted by the Thalmor and will just not stop shouting about him or regaling people with some of your favourite sermons.

+200 CP

Busywork

You know it's boring and that you have much bigger fish to fry but you're compelled to spend a significant proportion of your time doing mindless busywork. Whether this is in the form of mining, chopping wood or making thousands of iron daggers varies but you struggle to think of anything else while you're at it.

Go Home

OR

Stay

You stay in Tamriel for the rest of your life.

OR

NOTES:

- Should you Move On or Go Home, you can change between your chosen race and your normal form (or other forms you have picked up in other jumps).
- Magic reliant on TES metaphysics continues to work in other universes for you and your companions.
- Anyone has the potential for magic and receives a replenishing pool of magicka unless stated otherwise.
- Armsman and Master of the Arcane can be bought multiple times for different weapons and different schools of magic respectively.
- Monster Lord powers are effectively the powers of a maxed out Werewolf or Vampire Lord perk tree. During this jump Vampire Lords will feel tired in sunlight and Werewolves will become slightly more violent in their tendencies.
- Dragonborns need dragon souls to unlock the shouts they learn off Word Walls via Thu'um. They will however have all known words unlocked regardless after the jump is over.
- Artefact Blade may be taken multiple times for the various swords it grants.
- Argonians may choose either Black Marsh or the southern section of Morrowind they have now captured.
- Any enchanted item purchased with CP will never run out of charge.
- You can only take one Prophecy and companions cannot take Prophecies. Your Prophecy can override your Identity text, your history and even your starting region.
- Cool cats don't trip.
