WORLD.

YOU WILL SPEND THE NEXT 10 YEARS IN THIS WORLD.

YOU HAVE 1000 CP TO SPEND

SECTION ONE REGION

You may choose any starting location for 50 CP (including options not explicitly stated) or Roll 1d10 for free.

You may choose a specific location of your starting region as a starting point.

I: THE NORTH

A cold, vast and sparsely populated land and the northernmost of the historical Seven Kingdoms. The southern section of the Neck is covered in dense and dangerous bogs while the rest is made up of pine forests, hills and snow-capped mountains. The winters are terrible. To the north is the Wall and the Night's Watch.

II: THE RIVERLANDS

The Riverlands are situated to the immediate south of the North. The climate is generally fair and the lands are fertile, rich and prosperous. It has no natural boundaries and as such has been contested throughout the centuries and has frequently been a battleground. It is dominated by large rivers. It is not considered one of the traditional Seven Kingdoms.

III: THE VALE

The Vale is situated to the east of the Riverlands. It is a land of extremely fertile valleys and large mountain ranges. Its surrounding mountains make it extremely difficult to invade. The winters are harsh and the uncivilised mountain clans are troublesome.

IV: THE WESTERLANDS

The Westerlands are situated to the west of the Riverlands. The richest region of Westeros due to the vast amount of gold and silver situated beneath its many hills. Dotted with mines from which the region derives its vast wealth. Reasonably fertile and easily defensible.

V: THE IRON ISLANDS

The Iron Islands lie to the west of the Riverlands and the north of the Westerlands. They are relatively small, rocky and barren. The Ironman tradition is one of reaving and plundering the west coast of Westeros proper. There is little wealth to be had from honest work.

VI: THE REACH

The Reach is a large province to the south of the Riverlands and situated in the centre and south-west of Westeros. It is extremely fertile, populous and rich. It is the home of chivalry in Westeros as well as a major source of production for food and wine.

VII: THE STORMLANDS

The Stormlands lie to the east of the Reach. They are so-named for the savage and frequent storms that batter the coast. It is one of the smaller regions of Westeros and is covered by stony shores, harsh mountains and large verdant forests. Rains are common and the land is reasonably fertile.

VIII: DORNE

Dorne is a varied peninsula situated to the south of the Reach and the Stormlands. It is the hottest region in Westeros consisting of an arid desert, a rocky mountain range and a vast coastline. In-land water can be more precious than gold and a large proportion of the relatively small population live on the east coast or in the cooler north.

IX: THE FREE CITIES

The free cities are a group of nine city-states on the large eastern continent of Essos. They share common ancestry in Valyria, are known for trade and hire mercenaries frequently to do battle with one another. You may choose one of the following: Pentos, Braavos, Lys, Qohor, Norvos, Myr, Tyrosh, Volantis or Lorath.

- Some Noble Houses will require a purchase of a starting region. E.g. being a member of House Targaryen requires you to take Great House, Noble and a purchase of the region the Crownlands (for the period of history that House Targaryen are in the Crownlands).
- Great Houses for the purposes of this jump are roughly defined as any family that is currently a royal house, any house in which one of the members is currently Lord Paramount of a region and any house which will become either royal or Lord Paramount within the next 50 years from your starting point in the timeline.
- Shadowbinder does not drain your life force.
- Imported companions can take Flaws but gain no additional CP for them. They do however benefit from Free options and Discounts.
- Imported weapons, pets and ships can revert to their original form when you will them to.
- You may only take one Quest.
- Boons from Quests are awarded immediately on selecting the Quest.
- For Drop-Ins you do not have the history suggested in Quests but instead wake up with your Victory Condition in mind.
- If you take the Last of the Giants Quest you get a discount on Pet if you choose a mammoth.
- The reward for the Last of the Giants Quest grants both a giant form, increased strength and durability in other forms and an optional increase in size across the board. Giants that take Large double this bonus and are the largest of their kind.
- Default character for Stalwart Shield is Robert Baratheon.
- Should you choose to start in the era in which the TV show takes place you can use TV show continuity rather than the books. A lot of it doesn't make as much sense though and you should feel bad.
- Cool cats don't trip.
