True power comes from inside - Free

With this perk you gain basic access to the Ki abilities of Dragon Ball Evolution.

Through training and practice you can learn to create, shape and manipulate three elements, air, fire and water formed from your life force energy.

These elements can be expressed either as a blast of that energy or as a method to vitalise the body making the user stronger, faster, more durable, accelerating their body's natural regenerative qualities and potentially slowing or even stopping their aging.

These elements aren't only stronger than usual elements, but also have the power to affect one's soul in varying ways.

There are three known levels of Ki elements bending with each requiring independent training before you can learn to combine them. The first and most basic level is a simple expression of the element, the second level is to control two expressions of the elements simultaneously and the final level is to compress multiple expressions of the element into a concentrated expression that you can continue to add to it, increasing its eventual output.

You've been trained well - Free

The purpose of Martial Arts is training different techniques of attacking and self-defense, with the purpose of pushing one's physical and/or spiritual condition so that they become stronger and more efficient through gained knowledge and practice from the principles of fighting.

Thousands of years ago, a Nameless Sage sought to ascend to the throne of Kami and become the Guardian of the World. To do this he split all evil from himself and in doing so unintentionally created the Demon King Piccolo an inhuman evil that the sage was powerless against, one who created an army of demons to wreak havoc upon an unsuspecting and unprotected world.

Kami in desperation created the DragonBalls magical stones which could summon the Dragon Shenron and gain from him a single wish from this wish Kami begged the dragon to grant the warriors of earth the mystic powers needed to defeat the Demon King Piccolo. These mystic warriors of earth fought many battles and lost many allies against the Demons but were eventually able to seal the Demon King and his army away using a powerful enchantment called the Mafuba binding their lives to the seal.

So long as the warriors live the seal will remain and so long as the seal remains the warriors have an unending longevity protecting them from age and illness. However over time most of the mystic warriors have fallen to mortal wounds weakening the seal and releasing fragments of the Demon King's army requiring heroes to rise up and defeat them.

Eventually the Demon King's most brutal and primal beast the Ōzaru was released resulting in the deaths of many of the remaining warriors with Master Mutaito sacrificing himself in order to put an end to the threat of the Ōzaru.

With only five of the mystic warriors remaining a new plan was need Master Shen and his apprentice Tao Pai Pai demanded they each create an army to break the seal and slay the Demon King but Master Roshi and his two apprentices Gyū Maō and Son Gohan wished to raise new Mystic Warriors to strengthen the Seal and lessen the chance of the Demon King's revival.

From this impasse a rift was formed, one that caused a great tragedy only days ago as Tao Pai Pai's Red Ribbon Army managed to release only the Demon King himself and unleashed the weapons of the modern world but these mortal weapons could not slay him but leave him in a weakened state.

Taking advantage of Tao Pai Pai's death, the Demon King managed to break the seal on three of his demonic assassins, Pilaf, Shu and Mai in order to seek the one thing that may threaten him use and use them to restore himself to his prime. His first target: the 4-star ball.
