Introduction:

As you continued your journey within the vast multiverse, continuously changing the fates and trajectories of the worlds you visited, whether for good or ill, it mattered not, for you had caught the attention of Tzeentch, the changer of ways. With a snicker, he decided to have some amusement and bestow his favor upon you as you wrought change throughout the multiverse.

With a wave of his hand, tentacle, wing, or beak (let's be honest, the form of the artifacts of fate is ever-changing), whether he resembled a blob with three eyes or a typical eldritch god, he granted you an army under your command.

Now, here's where the fun truly begins for Tzeentch, for there is always a price to pay for his favor. You may choose to roll $1d100+9$ to determine the starting favor you've received. Alternatively, you may opt to start with a fixed amount of 100 favors from the outset. However, in building your army, you must pay a set price and receive a randomly selected unit from each section, along with a variable number of individuals within that unit and their potential upgrades. Fear not if you find yourself facing challenges due to these choices, for all is as per Tzeentch's grand design.

This supplement can seamlessly integrate into any chosen setting or jump. Embrace the favor bestowed upon you by Tzeentch and mold your army as fate has ordained.

Tzeentch Blessing:

Before we start building your army here are a few Blessings that Tzeentch has bestowed upon you and possible Generals and Heroes in your army.

Mark Of Tzeentch [Free]:

The mark of the Windlord has been etched into the very fabric of your soul, signifying your allegiance as one of his many followers. With this mark, your intellect has ascended to the level of genius, enabling you to tackle massive and intricate problems with ease. Additionally, you've been granted a force field capable of absorbing damage up to a certain threshold before breaking, though it will replenish itself over time. However, until it recharges, you remain vulnerable to attacks. Furthermore, you've gained the basic ability to cast the Lore of Tzeentch spells, tapping into the arcane powers favored by the changer of ways.

Exalted Of Tzeentch [1 Favor]:

Tzeentch, in his unfathomable foresight, has foreseen the magnitude of the impact you and your legions shall unleash upon the worlds. Thus, he has decreed to further augment your power. No longer are you a mere neophyte in the realm of magic; you have ascended to the prestigious rank of an Archwizard. This transformation imbues your spells with unparalleled potency, capable of shaping reality itself to your whims. Furthermore, your defensive barriers have been fortified, rendering them impervious to even the most devastating assaults until their limits are tested beyond measure. In addition to these enhancements, you have been bestowed with the mastery to delve into any school of magic with unparalleled proficiency.

Winds Of Magic Manipulation [3 Favor]:

The capricious nature of the Winds of Magic has long been a challenge for spellcasters, but such concerns are now a relic of the past. With your newfound ability to manipulate the very flow of magical energy, you hold dominion over the Winds themselves. This mastery enables you and your allies to cast spells with unparalleled precision and potency, unfettered by the whims of chance. Indeed, the presence of multiple Winds of Magic Manipulation users within your ranks amplifies this control, allowing for even greater precision and longevity in the optimal casting of spells. With each adept skilled in harnessing the arcane currents, the weave of magic becomes more pliable, granting you and your allies a formidable advantage on the battlefield.

Lore Of Tzeentch [Free]:

The Lore of Tzeentch, also known as Tzeentchian magic, is a school of arcane knowledge deeply intertwined with the essence and machinations of Tzeentch, the Chaos God of change, manipulation, and sorcery. This lore represents the ever-shifting and unpredictable nature of Tzeentch's influence, embodying the concepts of transformation, manipulation, and the manipulation of fate itself.

Other Lores Of Magic [1 Favors each]:

As one of Tzeentch's followers, it's not uncommon for you to learn the other lores of magic. Roll 1d8 to determine which lore you have mastered, and reroll the dice for each lore you have already learned.

1. Lore of Fire

This lore harnesses the primal power of flames and heat, allowing its users to conjure devastating fireballs, fiery blasts, and engulfing conflagrations. It is favored by pyromancers and those who seek to scorch their enemies to ash.

2. Lore of Metal

The Lore of Metal manipulates the properties of metal, allowing its wielders to transmute and manipulate metal objects and creatures. Spells from this lore often involve creating metallic constructs, enchanting weapons, or unleashing devastating blasts of metal shards.

3. Lore of Light

This lore focuses on harnessing the power of light and purity to banish darkness and smite the forces of Chaos. Spells from the Lore of Light often involve blinding flashes, radiant beams, and protective wards against dark magic.

4. Lore of Life

The Lore of Life taps into the vitality and essence of nature itself, granting its users the ability to heal wounds, bolster resilience, and revitalize allies. It is favored by healers, druids, and those who seek to nurture and protect life.

5. Lore of Beasts

This lore channels the primal ferocity and savagery of the wild, allowing its users to summon beasts, enhance physical attributes, and unleash devastating attacks inspired by the animal kingdom. It is favored by shamans and those who embrace the untamed aspects of nature.

6. Lore of Shadow

The Lore of Shadow manipulates darkness and deception, allowing its users to cloak themselves in shadows, confound enemies with illusions, and manipulate the perceptions of others. It is favored by assassins, spies, and those who thrive in the shadows.

7. Lore of Death

This lore harnesses the power of entropy and decay, allowing its users to drain the life force from their enemies, raise the dead, and unleash curses and diseases upon their foes. It is favored by necromancers, liches, and those who seek to wield power over mortality itself.

8. Lore of Heavens

The Lore of Heavens taps into the celestial energies of the stars and skies, allowing its users to manipulate weather patterns, call down lightning bolts, and predict the future through divination. It is favored by seers, astrologers, and those who seek to unravel the mysteries of the cosmos.

Chaos Plate of Tzeentch [Free]:

Adorned with the insignias of Tzeentch, the Chaos Plate armor stands as a profound testament to the wearer's unwavering dedication to your god the Great Conspirator as a divine boon for devious schemes, each ensemble is a blasphemous masterpiece, intricately adorned with carvings devoted to Tzeentch's chaotic essence. These infernal armaments transcend mortal craftsmanship. Clad in Chaos Plate, warriors are often hailed as indestructible, for common weapons splinter against its impenetrable surface, and arrows are deflected harmlessly. Remarkably, the armor seamlessly melds with the wearer, offering unmatched flexibility and ease in combat, conforming effortlessly to their physique, regardless of any mutations they may bear. Furthermore, Chaos Plate boasts the extraordinary capability to self-mend over time, ensuring its endurance even during the most grueling of campaigns. Whether preserved in its original state or modified to emit an even more chaotic energy, Chaos Plate endows its wearer with unparalleled defense and fortitude, serving as a harbinger of destruction to all who dare to challenge the chaotic forces of Tzeentch.

The Blade Of Tzeentch [Free]:

Taking the form of a large khopesh sickle-sword, this ancient force weapon has been blessed by Tzeentch's magicks, imbuing it with the ability to amplify magical abilities to a frightening degree. Its supernaturally sharp edge slices through chaos plats as easily as flesh, and with each kill, the souls of the slain are subjected to the energies of the blade, adding to the power of the spells cast by the user. But that's not all; this weapon causes mutations to all enemies that escape death, turning them into foul chaos spawn, creatures so pitiful that death would likely be the better choice.

Possible mount upgrades can only choose one :

1. Steed Of Tzeentch [1 Favor]:

These shadowy steeds are the favored mounts of the savage Chaos Knights dedicated to Tzeentch. Among the steeds granted to followers of the Chaos Gods, these creatures stand out for their exceptional intelligence, surpassing even those aligned with other deities. Additionally, they possess an innate ability to negate spells cast by opponents, providing invaluable protection to their riders on the battlefield.

2. Disc of Tzeentch [2 Favor]:

The Discs of Tzeentch are formidable entities in the service of Tzeentch, the Chaos God of change and intrigue. Originally Lesser Daemons known as Screamers, they underwent a transformative process to assume their current form: large, disc-like shapes perfectly suited for swift mounts by sorcerers bound to Tzeentch.

3. Burning Chariots [3 Favor]:

The Burning Chariot of Tzeentch is a formidable daemonic construct dedicated to the service of the Lord of Change, the Chaos God Tzeentch. Comprising ornate Discs of Tzeentch, propelled by the swift and malevolent Screemers, a Burning Chariot streaks across the heavens of the mortal world, leaving a blazing trail in its wake. Mortal observers often mistake its fiery passage for a comet, interpreting it as an ominous portent of impending doom, as has been the case throughout ancient times.

4. Chaos Dragon [9 Favor]:

A Chaos Dragon, formerly a part of the esteemed dragon lineage, succumbed to corruption akin to that which ensnares mortal beings, particularly under the influence of Tzeentch, the Deity of Change. Distorted in semblance compared to its unblemished counterparts, a Chaos Dragon boasts a colossal, distended form, bifurcated into two elongated necks reminiscent of trunks, terminating in horned and fanged visages. One head emits billowing smoke, fueled by the infernos raging within its gullet, while the other expels clouds of acidic vapors, scorching the surrounding lands.

Army List:

Before we proceed with recruitment, you will receive one General at base points for free; these units do not get any upgrades, and you can't choose the Greater Daemon of Tzeentch. It's worth noting that units with higher favor values and fewer numbers are generally more powerful.

Each unit in the list has the potential to be upgraded based on the provided list of possible upgrades and equipment, which will be detailed in the Gifts of Tzeentch section of this supplement. They must decide when to buy the unit, as they can't be upgraded later.

If you choose the option of receiving 100 Favors from the get-go, then for each section after paying the roll fee, roll the dice to see what unit you get; on a one, you get nothing. I know Tzeentch really likes to troll people, but hey, you knew what you were getting into. You will also be prompted to roll the number of soldiers in that unit based on the dice shown on the unit name. In the general section, these are always considered one model for each unit. After receiving a unit, roll the d (number of possible upgrades + 1) to determine how many upgrades they get, with a pure one on the dice having no upgrades. When you get the total number of upgrades minus 1, roll several d (number of possible upgrades) by the number of upgrades they get. They get these upgrades for free. Also, for upgrades for Possible Mounts, roll a d4 to determine which mount they get from the list in the possible mount upgrades. For Other Lores Of Magic, there will be a number associated with it. This number will indicate how many lores they get for free that you need to roll on the list. If any favor is left over than you get to roll the Infantry section again for the remaining favor you have ignoring the price .

Generals[Roll 1d10/ Fee Is 7 Favor Each]:

These units epitomize the most blessed creatures within your array of miscreants, as they not only receive the greatest blessings from the changer of ways. Because of this, these units not only allow you to reduce micromanagement of your army but also simultaneously buff certain units on the battlefield and amplify the potency of their usage in battle. They are most effective in leading 9 units at a time. Beware, though they may be your most powerful subordinates in this army, you need to keep your eyes open as there might be some possible treachery within this army.

2.Tzaangor Shamans [3 Favor]:

Tzaangor Shamans are gifted and powerful sorcerers among the Tzeentch Arcanites, renowned for their precognitive visions and savage intelligence. Leading warflocks through their gift of prophecy, they excel not only as formidable sorcerers but also as close-range fighters.

These Shamans impart their wisdom to their Tzaangor warflocks, teaching them that consuming the tongues of their foes grants them speech and insights into the nature of their enemies. This practice increases the intelligence of the Tzaangors under their guidance, enhancing their understanding and capabilities on the battlefield.

Each Magister is a powerful warlock in their own right, capable of giving a terrible and disturbing demise to anyone that annoys them. The cultist in your army will be more organized when these one are on the field.

Highly prized for their adeptness in extracting intel from foes, they possess an eerie knack for discerning falsehoods. Their grotesque appendages absorb secrets, while their probing inquiries excel at uncovering concealed truths – invaluable qualities for cults in their quest for enlightenment. These Curselings are formidable mage-warriors, empowered by daemonic energies through a fused, spell-shaping Tretchlet. They delight in nothing more than redirecting the spells of their adversaries back against them, manipulating the flow of magic to their own advantage.

To attain the esteemed rank of Fatemaster, aspirants must not only demonstrate unwavering devotion to Tzeentch but also exhibit the cunning and quick thinking favored by the Changer of the Ways. An aspiring Fatemaster must undergo trials that would surely spell doom for lesser individuals. These trials, known as the Nine Trials of Fate, require either an extraordinary stroke of luck or intuition that surpasses mere anticipation. These warriors bring out the best of the spells cast by his subordinates.

6.Herald of Tzeentch [4 Favor]:

Changecasters, the most prevalent Heralds of Tzeentch, play a crucial role in battle as they lead packs of Horrors. However, this task proves challenging, given the Horrors' penchant for mischief and erratic behavior. Unlike Horrors, Changecasters do not split into multiple entities when struck down; instead, they exhibit enhanced strength and resilience. Additionally, they wield potent sorcery, capable of unleashing blasts of wyrdfire in hues of pink or blue. Many also carry arcane tomes or scrolls, from which they recite incantations to augment their magical prowess. Moreover, their mere presence enhances the abilities of their fellow daemons.

Exalted Flamers stand as distinguished champions among their kin, possessing heightened levels of independent thought and emitting sorcery from every pore of their flesh. They have the ability to unleash even more potent warpflames, which manifest in the form of ominous sigils and grotesque faces, seemingly possessing a will of their own. These infernal flames have the capacity to reduce entire units to piles of charred bones, while those who survive must confront the fiery wrath of their blazing maw.

Possible Upgrades

8.Ogroid Thaumaturge[5 Favor]:

Scant information exists regarding the enigmatic Ogroid Thaumaturges, save for their formidable combat prowess. Enveloped in rage, their skin pulsates with arcane energy, while eldritch sigils illuminate their muscular forms. Surrounding them, multicolored flames of Tzeentch burst forth as they rend enemies asunder with their bare hands, endowed with the strength to pierce even sigmarite armor with their formidable horns. What is most disconcerting, however, is that these beings are not mere brutes; rather, they possess impressive sorcerous abilities, unleashing blasts of flaming energy upon their foes. They are good at leading both beastman and humans in battle.

These daemon-sorcerers, lacking faces but adorned with a multitude of glistening eyes, possess the ability to warp reality with their incantations and engulf entire armies in warfire. Infamous for their involvement in some of the most horrifying atrocities of the Age of Chaos, they wield mastery over sorcery and dark arcane arts, capable of transforming foes into Chaos Spawn or obliterating them with the iridescent fires of Tzeentch. Surrounded by cloaks of sorcerous miasma and illusion, they exude an aura of fear and deceit.

Among their vast array of magical abilities, the most renowned is their Infernal Gateway spell, which enables them to weave tendrils of magic that tear the fabric of reality, opening a shrieking portal to the Crystal Labyrinth in the Realm of Chaos, drawing nearby warriors to their inevitable demise. Additionally, they possess the power to summon swirling tempests of change and mutation, ensnaring enemies in nightmarish realms, and unleash wyrdfires of Tzeentch or deadly, multicolored magical flames upon their foes. The presence of these entities on the battlefield for your army confirms your status as the chosen of Tzeentch.

Infantry[Roll 1d7 / Fee Is 3 Favor Each]:

2. 900 or 9d100+ 90 Tzaangor [1 Favor]:

The origins of Tzaangors are as diverse as the intricate schemes of Tzeentch himself. Some are Gor-Kin who have been corrupted—or perhaps elevated, as they would claim—by a Tzaangor Shaman. The peculiarly mutated minds of Tzaangors have developed a keen affinity for magic, drawing them inexorably to the arcane, where they seek to accumulate its power. Additionally, Tzaangors are intimately connected to the threads of fate, their animalistic instincts attuned to detecting omens much like beasts scenting prey upon the winds. This magical sensitivity enables them to sense the presence of a deity, although they are unable to discern its true nature.

Possible Upgrades

- 1.Exalted Of Tzeentch

Equipment

- Greataxe or Greatblade or Savage Blade and Arcanite Shield.

3. 800 or 40d20+ 90 Kairic Acolyte [1 Favor]:

Kairic Acolytes are drawn from diverse backgrounds, spanning tribesmen lured by an arcane allure to seekers hungering for forbidden knowledge or power-hungry bureaucrats, all united by a relentless drive for ambition. These acolytes possess the uncanny ability to metamorphose into a perfected, muscular ideal of the human form, conjuring weapons seemingly out of thin air through the chanting of arcane phrases that unsettle the ears of the uninitiated. Equally enigmatic is their capacity to seamlessly revert to their original forms.

Possible Upgrades

- 1.Exalted Of Tzeentch

Equipment

- Greataxe or Greatblade or Savage Blade and Arcanite Shield.
- Lore Of Tzeentch

4. 600 or 30d20+ 90 Jade Obelisk [1 Favor]:

The Jade Obelisk is a Tzeentchian cult dedicated to the ruthless obliteration of temples, monuments, and false idols not aligned with their malevolent deity. Despite their embrace of Chaos, they have retained their proficiency as masons and sculptors. They derive a perverse satisfaction from fashioning new weapons and segmented armor from the petrified remains of their victims, employing an artisan's delicate precision in their craftsmanship. Their preference lies with heavy mattocks and mauls—weapons capable of shattering bone with the same ease as pulverizing the altars of Sigmarite chapels or demolishing orruk totems into shards and splinters. Among the warriors, the most distinctive weapon wielded into battle is the Nephric Obelisk—a shard of crystal sourced from the grand monument of Nephricar itself, meticulously shaped and enchanted by the cult's priesthood.

Equipment

- heavy mattocks and mauls

5. 600 or 30d20+ 90 Blue Horrors [2 Favor]:

Blue Horrors are characterized by their resentment, bitterness, and vindictiveness. Despite their protests, grumbling, and somber muttering, they unleash blasts of mystical azure flames upon their foes, conjured forth from their fingertips. In close combat, they assail their adversaries with their sharp-taloned hands. And each one fallen in replace with two smaller Brimstone Horrors.

Equipment

- Daggers .
- Lore Of Tzeentch

6. 300 or 30d10+ 90 Pink Horrors [3 Favor]:

Pink Horrors are whimsical and jubilant daemons, capable of generating raw, chaotic magic through nonsensical gibbering and frenzied arm movements. When gathered in large numbers, they saturate the air with arcane energy, enabling them to unleash unnatural fire upon their enemies. The more Pink Horrors present, the more potent their Magical Flames become, and they also bolster the casting abilities of other Tzeentchian Daemons. In close combat, they employ their grasping hands to choke and strangle their foes. And each one fallen in replace with two smaller Blue Horrors.

Possible Upgrades

- 1.Exalted Of Tzeentch

Equipment

- Daggers .
- Lore Of Tzeentch

7. 50 or 5d10+ 9 Chosen Of Tzeentch[3 Favor]:

Those marked with the physical manifestations of the Raven God distinguish themselves from their peers through heinous acts. However, many lack the mental resilience to bear the burdens of being chosen by Tzeentch. Only the strongest among them avoid succumbing to mindless, babbling Chaos Spawn, instead ascending beyond their mortal constraints and gradually assuming a more formidable form. Regardless of the unique gifts bestowed upon them, these formidable warriors invariably carry a fraction of Tzeentch's supreme intellect. This compels them relentlessly to innovate new techniques or enact changes that are inexorable.

Possible Upgrades

- 1.Exalted Of Tzeentch
- 2.2 Other Lores Of Magic

Equipment

- Greataxe or Greatblade or Savage Blade and Arcanite Shield.
- Lore Of Tzeentch

Cavalry[Roll 1d6 / Fee Is 5 Favor Each]:

2.400 or 4d100+ 90Tzaangor Skyfire [3 Favor]:

Tzaangor Skyfires are Tzaangors mounted upon Discs of Tzeentch, esteemed as exemplars among the warflocks, often garnering nearly as much awe and reverence as the Tzaangor Shamans themselves. Compared to their brethren, the fate-sense of Skyfires is significantly heightened, granting them the ability to perceive multiple potential futures at any given moment. Despite being rendered silent by Tzeentch, they are still able to utilize their knowledge to lethal effect. Aligning events as revealed to them, Skyfires unfailingly strike their targets with precision every time

Possible Upgrades

- 1.Exalted Of Tzeentch

Equipment

- Bows

3.400 or 4d100+ 90 Tzaangor Enlightened [3 Favor]:

Tzaangor Enlightened stand as the elite members of the Tzaangor Warflocks, distinguished by their peculiar feathers and ornate horns, symbols of Tzeentch's profound favor. Some are even granted the privilege of riding upon Discs of Tzeentch. In contrast to the Tzaangor Skyfires, the Enlightened do not possess the ability to foresee the future. Instead, they are blessed with the capacity to recall echoes of past events. In combat, this enables them to taunt their enemies with a barrage of psychological assaults—repeating the dying words of loved ones, the mocking jeers of fellow soldiers, and tales of betrayal buried deep in the past.

Possible Upgrades

- 1.Exalted Of Tzeentch

Equipment

- Spears

3. 90 or 9d10+ 9 Chaos Knights of Tzeentch [3 Favor]:

The Knights of Change are formidable and fearsome warriors, forsaking their homelands in exchange for the ambiguous blessings of Tzeentch. Among their ranks are individuals of significant importance and worldly power in their previous lives, ranging from statesmen and nobles to renowned Templars and military figures. Mounted atop their majestic Chaos Steeds, they brandish extravagant weapons in a macabre imitation of the illustrious Knightly Orders many of them once served.

Possible Upgrades

- 1.Exalted Of Tzeentch
- 2.2 Other Lores Of Magic

Equipment

- Greataxe or Greatblade or Savage Blade and Arcanite Shield.
- Lore Of Tzeentch

4. 90 or 9d10+ 9 Doom Knights of Tzeentch [4 Favor]:

Doom Knights rank among the most formidable mortals ever witnessed in the world. Mastering the Discs of Tzeentch, they hold themselves in a league above even other champions of Chaos. Hurling through the skies with a piercing shriek, they would be a breathtaking spectacle if their arrival didn't invariably herald death and, true to their name, complete and absolute doom. There is no reprieve from the Doom Knights, and as one would rightly anticipate, they exhibit no mercy whatsoever.

Possible Upgrades

- 1.Exalted Of Tzeentch
- 2.2 Other Lores Of Magic

Equipment

- Greataxe or Greatblade or Savage Blade and Arcanite Shield.
- Lore Of Tzeentch

5. 40 or 4d10+ 9 Changebringers [5 Favor]:

A Changebringer epitomizes the chaotic essence of Tzeentch, embodying both the relentless change and enigmatic allure of the Changer of Ways. These Daemonic Flamers ride atop Discs of Tzeentch, hovering effortlessly over the tumultuous battlefield, their forms wreathed in otherworldly flames. From their elevated vantage point, they serve as harbingers of destruction, swiftly maneuvering to engage enemies and sow discord among their ranks. With each flicker of warpflame unleashed upon the hapless adversaries below, the Changebringers reinforce the ever-shifting nature of Tzeentch's influence, ensuring that chaos reigns supreme in the midst of battle.

Equipment

- Flames Of Change

6. 4 or 1d4+ 1 Burning Chariots of Tzeentch [6 Favor]:

Burning Chariots of Tzeentch streak across the Realm of Chaos like blazing meteors, ferrying the chosen emissaries of the Great Sorcerer to all corners of existence. These chariots consist of fiery discs forged from sorcerous metal, tethered to a pair of Screamers, hurtling through the sky akin to strangely hued comets. In battle, the chariots leave behind a trail of mutating warpflame, capable of immolating those beneath them and transforming survivors, all while the riders revel in their actions without remorse.

Equipment

- Flames Of Change

Monsters[Roll 1d10 / Fee Is 7 Favor Each]:

2. 200 or 10d20+90 Feathered Fiend [1 Favor]:

Feathered Fiends are fearsome avian predators, known for their razor-sharp talons and beaks, as well as their ability to swoop down upon unsuspecting prey with deadly precision. These creatures often lurk in the shadows of dense forests or atop lofty cliffs, waiting patiently for the opportune moment to strike. With keen eyesight and unparalleled agility in flight, Feathered Fiends are formidable hunters capable of instilling terror in those who dare to wander into their territory.

Equipment

- Beaks

3. 200 or 10d20+90 Screamer of Tzeentch [2 Favor]:

Screamers of Tzeentch are ethereal Daemonic Beasts aligned with Tzeentch, traversing the skies with an otherworldly grace. A haunting wail echoes in their wake, and as they draw near, their presence emanates a psychologically unsettling shriek. These creatures are propelled by an unrelenting instinct to hunt down mortal souls.

Equipment

- Jaws

4. 90 or 9d10+9 Flamers of Tzeentch [2 Favor]:

Flamers exhibit remarkable agility, propelling themselves with bursts of gaseous ichor expelled through the fungoid 'skirt' at their base, bounding and leaping across the terrain with playful enthusiasm. Employing their blazing limbs, Flamers launch bolts of magical flame at their adversaries. This flame is not typical; rather, it manifests as a swirling cloud of Chaos energy that distorts reality. Rather than causing conventional burns, it warps the fabric of existence. Victims of a Flamer's assault may experience a brief surge of energy before succumbing to a grotesque transformation, their form collapsing into a writhing puddle of flesh.

Equipment

- Flame Warp

5. 90 or 9d10+9 Chaos Spawn [3 Favor]:

A being bestowed with numerous gifts from the Dark Gods ultimately succumbs to madness and mutation, transforming into a Chaos Spawn. Once a humanoid form, it now manifests as an obscene and monstrous anatomy, mutated to the point of near-unrecognizability. Allegedly inhabiting the Annulii Mountains of Ulthuan, Cockatrices are fierce beasts displaying evident Chaos corruption through their unnatural appearance and aggressive demeanor in battle. In reality, the Cockatrice is not known for its boldness in combat, instead preferring to linger on the outskirts of a battlefield where it can safely scavenge from the deceased and dying. Despite its penchant for self-preservation, confronting one is deemed foolish, as when cornered, the beast unleashes a berserk frenzy, clawing at any who draw near with maddened ferocity that belies its inherent cowardice.

In this dark pact, its diminished essence becomes bound to a formidable Warp-metal colossus, transforming into a Soul Grinder. Each step of the Soul Grinder reverberates with a clanking tread that shakes the earth, despite its remarkable agility for its size, capable of swift movements akin to a horse's gallop, or even faster if the scent of battle stirs its senses. Powered by piston-driven legs, its strides deliver bone-crushing force, reducing anything unfortunate enough to be caught beneath them to a pulpy mass.

Scenarios:

At times, you may feel compelled to offer further tribute to the Wind lord, seeking to increase your standing in his eyes and earn additional Favor. Now, through the completion of these Scenarios below and yes you can take multiple, not only can you augment your Favor, but you may also receive additional rewards deemed worthy by this troll of a god.

1. On A Whim.

Let's be honest for a second here and determine what Tzeentch considers worthy for a favor. And since he is the most whimsical of gods, at the end of every world you jump, roll 1d20. On a 9 and 18, roll 1d10 favor for free. On a 20, roll 1d20 for favors and 1d4 to determine how many units in your army gain a Tzeentch gift.

2. Innovation of Magic

This scenario is only applicable in worlds where magic is part of the setting. As Tzeentch is the god of magic and he prefers his subordinates to continuously improve. That's why, as you observe the current magic system in this world, you perceive its flaws. Determined to reveal the true essence of magic, you set out to enlighten these individuals. For every improvement you make to the world's magic system that gains widespread adoption, roll 1d10 for Tzeentch's favor, as he is pleased with the changes you instigate. Additionally, for every 9 improvements you implement, roll 1d4 to determine how many units in your army gain a Tzeentch gift. These rewards are gained at the end of the jump.

3. The Gift of Magic

This scenario is only applicable in worlds where either magic is not part of the setting or only an elite few can use magic. Tzeentch finds the status quo boring and uninteresting, which is why you have been tasked to spread the adoption of magic to the masses. Whether you decide to spread the lore of Tzeentch or create a unique magical system specific to that world is up to you. Either way, chaos will ensue in this world. At the end of the jump, for every 9% of the population that adopts your magic system, roll 3d10 for the favor gained and roll 2d4 to determine how many units in your army gain a Tzeentch gift.

4. The Scheming

Going underground and planning from the shadows are one of Tzeentch's favorite activities. That's why he has commanded you to remain in the shadows and manipulate people to achieve your goals for you. The goals you wish to achieve can be either good or evil; it does not matter. As long as you don't directly intervene in this scheme of yours for the duration of this jump, you will gain the Wind Lord's favor.

At the beginning of the jump, you decide on what goals you will try to achieve in this world. These goals will be categorized by their complexity, difficulty, and time consumption. For complexity, it will be divided into three categories: simple, intermediate, and very complex. For simple goals, it takes 4 objectives to mark as a successful goal. For intermediate complexity, there will need to be around 9 objectives that need to be fulfilled for the goal to be completed. For very complex goals, it will take a minimum of 18 objectives to be fulfilled for the goal.

In the categories for how hard it is to fulfill those objectives, there are 4 levels of difficulty. Each objective in your plan is rated here. First, easy objectives can be easily done without a problem, like for example just killing a cat with any weapon. Then there is medium difficulty where it becomes a little more challenging, like for example killing a cat, but the killer needs to be around 2 to 3 km away and can only use bows. For hard objectives, the task becomes even more difficult as the killer needs to kill the cat from 2 to 3 km away, can only use bows, and there is now a force field around the cat, and you only have one shot to pierce both the force field and the cat. And for the final level, it will be impossible as the killer needs to kill the cat from 2 to 3 km away, can only use bows, there is now a force field around the cat, and you only have one shot to pierce both the force field and the cat, but at exactly the same time, you need to yodel to distract a bunch of pigeons that will in turn poop on some guards below, making them drop a bar code where then you send out another minion to retrieve this barcode, where then you input that barcode to a scanner on the front of the house of the target, which then opens the window where the cat lives, and you already time it where the cat yawns, weakening the barrier by 0.001%, giving you the best chance to kill that damn cat. So, now for time.

Now, you need to decide how fast you can complete each objective in your goals. It can be daily, weekly, yearly, or the entire stay of your jump. When you decide the number of goals you decide to make and how complex you want to be. At the end of the jump, for every successful goal, you roll dice to determine how much favor and Tzeentch gift you gained.

So, are you ready? Here it is for the complexity of the goal: determine the number of dice you roll where simple is four dice, intermediate is nine dice, and for very complex it will be 18 dice. And now for each of those objectives, how hard it is to fulfill those objectives determines what kind of die is being rolled: easy is a d2, medium is a d8, hard is a d20, and impossible is a d100. Now, for the time needed to finish the objective, it will be the dividing number at the end after the number of favors is generated to see how many units get a Tzeentch gift. For daily, it will be divided by 1000; monthly by 100; yearly by 10; and the entire jump by 1.

For example, if by say you finished a very complex goal where you do 10 easy objectives, 4 medium objectives, 3 hard objectives, and 1 impossible objective where it takes a year to finish, then your reward for that goal is $10d2 + 4d8 + 3d20 + 1d100$ favors which we get for this example 113 favor. And the number of units that get a Tzeentch gift will be $113/100 = 1.13$. Always round down to 1, and if it's below a 1, you will always receive 1 Tzeentch gift.

There are some restrictions on what goals you can make.

1. There must be something that changes from the goal you do.
2. No routine activities can be used for your goals for this scenario.
3. The same goals that you make can't be used in the same jump twice.
4. You can have as many goals as you want, but failure will always be there as it is still part of Tzeentch's grand schemes.

5. Change Is Inevitable

Well, it looks like Tzeentch has decided you will be getting a makeover every day in this jump. Now, every day you stay in this world, you will roll a d100 on the Chaos Form table and see what you transform into for that day. You will receive 1d100 favor for your troubles

6. Raze the Temples

This scenario is only applicable in worlds where the divine play an active role in mortal lives, such as in High School DxD. Tzeentch has decided that messing around with the gods of this world will be a fun way to pass the time. That is why he commands that you must destroy and raze every temple and holy site erected by these deities. At the end of your jump, tally the number of temples destroyed for each god. For every 9 temples of each god obliterated, you will gain 3d10 favors from Tzeentch. Additionally, choose 1d4 units in your army to gain Tzeentch Gifts for each 10 favors gained.

7. Daemon World [Incompatible with Fortress of Tzeentch and The Great Game]

Tzeentch has identified the potential of this world as perfect for his domain, filled with eternal change . He commands you to transform it into a reality fitting of his image. Your only means of departure from this jump is by turning this world into a daemon world in the image of Tzeentch. This transformation will be achieved through a combination of corrupting the land and its inhabitants with the energy of Tzeentch through rituals, creating demonic gates where the energy from the Fortress of Tzeentch seeps into the mortal realm, and by unleashing uncouth eldritch abomination upon the land. Upon successfully turning this world into a daemon world, you will receive 10d10+9 favors from Tzeentch, and you will gain the ability to rule this Daemon world, where you can recruit mortals and summon demons from this newly transformed realm.

8. Fortress of Tzeentch [Incompatible with Daemon World and The Great Game]

Tzeentch is bored by the inhabitants of this world. He sees that the people of this world have completely fallen into complacency and have stopped innovating. Therefore, he commands you to transform this world into a place filled with constant evolution, whether in fads, arts, or even political structures. Your method of departure from this jump is endless like for example to annihilate every government in this world and rebuild it with a core principle that stagnation is not acceptable, promoting rapid technological advancement akin to our real world. Alternatively, you could create an enemy or organization that continuously threatens this world, forcing it into an arms race for constant change.

Upon successfully turning this world into a place filled with never-ending change, you will receive $10d10+18$ favors from Tzeentch, and your entire army will be granted $1d3$ Tzeentch Gifts. This bypasses the limit of each unit receiving only one gift per scenario.

9. The Great Game [Incompatible with Daemon World and Fortress of Tzeentch] As part of the Great Game, this world has become a battleground for the Chaos Gods. Khorne, Tzeentch, Nurgle, and Slaanesh have all sent their champions to corrupt and conquer this realm. You are tasked with leading Tzeentch forces in this conflict, fighting not only against the champions of the other Chaos Gods but also against rival champions of Tzeentch himself. You will remain in this realm for $10d10+9$ years as the battle for dominance unfolds. At the end of the jump, for every champion you defeat who worships the other Chaos Gods, you will gain $10d10+9$ Favors. Additionally, for each rival champion of Tzeentch that you defeat, you will gain control of their army, which will salute you as their new general. Be warned, these champions are formidable adversaries, possessing strength and abilities that rival your own.

Tzeentch Gifts:

Certain scenarios offer rewards known as Tzeentch Gifts, which serve as power-ups to augment both your personal abilities and those of your armies on the battlefield. For the purpose of this supplement, you are regarded as a general. Both Generals and Heroes can receive a maximum of 8 Tzeentch Gifts, while other units can receive up to 4 Tzeentch Gifts. Also one unit can only receive one Nurgle Gifts per scenario per world you have visited.

8.Eternal Spells of Tzeentch

You have ascended to the esteemed rank of arcane sorcerer of Tzeentch. This elevation has increased the power of your spells and mind, allowing you to chant to disrupt spells and summon one of three potent permanent Eternal Spells of Tzeentch on the battlefield.

The three Eternal Spells that you can summon are :

1. Burning Sigil of Tzeentch

Drizzling with ectoplasm and daemonic fire, the summoned sigil of Tzeentch brims with mutative energies capable of transforming those nearby into myriad fleshy forms. To linger in its proximity is to court the horrors of grotesque metamorphosis – a perilous gamble in the tumultuous theater of war. These mutations are as much a blessing as they are a curse.

2. Tome of Eyes

By conjuring the Tome of Eyes, a spellcaster can unravel knowledge inscribed by daemonic forces as the tome decrypts them in return; thereby gaining access to the legendary Parchment Curse. This sinister spell transmutes the foes of the caster into dispersing sheaves of paper, each documenting a sinister and distorted rendition of the victim's life tale.

3. Daemonic Simulacrum

The twin-headed monstrosity called the Daemonic Simulacrum isn't a genuine daemon but a living illusion, a reflection of the deceit and cunning of the Lords of Change, who steer their Arcanite puppets into battle. Despite its ephemeral nature, when these deceptive entities strike, they have the power to rend the minds of their enemies, reducing them to drooling imbeciles.

9. Daemon Summoning

Now you possess the ability, through your chants, to summon daemons to the battlefield once a day. These daemons will remain until the battle is won or they are banished. When you perform the Daemon Summoning, roll a 1d9 to determine what is summoned each time.

1. 600 Blue Horrors
2. 90 Flamers
3. 200 Screammers
4. 300 pink Horrors
5. 1 Daemon Prince
6. 1 Gaunt Summoner on Disk of Tzeentch
7. 1 Exalted Flamers of Tzeentch
8. 1 Herald of Tzeentch on Chariot
9. 1 Exalted Lord Of Change

Infantry only :

This includes Generals and Heroes excluding Lord of Change and any unit that took any of the Mount upgrades Roll 1d9.

1.Nothing 4

Yes you get nothing and it counts to your limit.

2.Locus of Conjunction

This aura serves as a focal point for the manifestation of Tzeentchian sorceries, drawing upon the boundless energies of the Warp to weave spells into reality. Those within its vicinity of this aura find their own magical abilities heightened, enabling them to cast their incantations with greater potency and precision.

3.Expert Flamecasters

The flames emanating from this unit strike terror into the hearts of any unfortunate souls they engulf. Moreover, those who are touched by these infernal fires find their minds plunged into a state of unrelenting fear, rendering them unable to regain their composure for a period of time determined by rolling a 1d9.

4.Merge Merge

The number of soldiers in this unit has been halved, as they have been absorbed or cannibalized by their own allies. However, despite this reduction in numbers, the remaining unit has become four times stronger than before. Additionally, if the unit is a general, roll a d10 again on the general section. On a result of 1 or 10, reroll the die. Regardless of the outcome, the hero now merges with the new unit and gains all of their abilities and possible upgrades (excluding mounted ones) from the list, which they can freely choose.

5.Fires of Tzeentch

The flames of Tzeentch burn deep into both mortal flesh and inanimate objects alike. Once ignited, these flames cannot be extinguished until the target is reduced to nothing but ash.

6.Shatterselves

When this unit is wiped out in battle, roll a 1d9. The result indicates the number of months before that unit is summoned back from the Realm of Chaos.

7.Locus of Transmogrification

This is one of the most potent abilities wielded by the followers of Tzeentch, and this entity exploits it to its advantage. Strikes destined to banish its minions instead falter and fail. Injuries inflicted upon its units shift and warp, restoring them to full health. Through a continuous series of alterations, what appears to be victory for the enemy swiftly morphs into bewildering and utter defeat.

8.Spiteful Backlash

A daemoniac boon manifests in the form of sentient and malevolent warpflame, swirling around this entity's physical manifestation. It lashes out at those who dare to hinder its sorcerous endeavors, exacting punishment upon them. Should anyone attempt to dispel the spells cast by this unit and fail, their very soul suffers damage as a consequence.

9.Extra Extra

The number of soldiers within this unit has doubled, yet they retain their previous strength and prowess.

Cavalry only :

This includes Generals and Heroes that took the Mount Upgrade.
Roll 1d9 to determine what Gift they get.

1.Nothing 5

Yes you get nothing and it counts to your limit.

2.Invisibility

This unit is now completely invisible to anyone they don't consider allies, and this invisibility can't be broken except by the most powerful of magic.

3.Ornate Tzeentchian Spears

These spears or ornaments, when equipped to any melee weapon, bend both space and time to ensure that the attacks of this weapon will hit their target first.

4.Savagery Of Chaos

The mounts of this unit are savage beasts whose attacks not only increase in damage and affect the soul of the target but also inflict random status effects on their enemies. These effects can range from simple poisoning to uncontrollable laughter on the battlefield.

5.Winds of Instability

The shifting tides of the winds of magic protect this unit from harm. In addition to the normal barrier shielding this unit, an invisible barrier of wind alters the trajectory of both long-range and melee attacks targeting this unit, making it harder to hit..

6.Arcane Fusillade

Usually, when casting spells, units are required to stand still. However, this unit has been granted an absurd level of focus. Even when galloping at full speed, the spells cast by this unit won't fail.

7.Harmony Of The Wind

Wind resistance doesn't affect this unit's speed at all. The Windlord has blessed this unit with the wind's protection during travel, increasing both its speed and the distance traveled by three times in a day.

8.Thief of Fate

The power bestowed upon this unit by Tzeentch transcends the boundaries of time itself. When they strike down an enemy, they not only end their current existence but also sever their future potential. This means that regardless of any future circumstances or attempts at resurrection, that individual or entity can never return to life in any form, whether as a daemon, undead creature, or through any other means of resurrection

9.Aerial Battles

In the realm of aerial combat, the minions of Tzeentch find themselves bolstered by the chaotic winds of magic. These swirling currents of energy grant them increased agility and maneuverability in the air, allowing them to outmaneuver their foes with unparalleled grace. Additionally, the ever-shifting nature of Tzeentch's influence infuses their attacks with unpredictable and devastating power, making them a force to be reckoned with in the skies. As they soar amidst the clouds, their enemies find themselves at the mercy of an enemy whose movements are as unpredictable as the winds themselves. If Chaos knight receive this their mounts are change to disk of Tzeentch free of charge.

Monster only :

This includes Lord of Change, Exalted Flamers of Tzeentch, Daemon Princes, Soul Grinder, Ogroid Thaumaturge, and Units that took the mount upgrades of Dragon. Roll 1d9 to determine what Gift they get.

1.Nothing 6

Yes you get nothing and it counts to your limit.

2.Regenerates

The unit's mastery over magic is so profound that it bestows upon them a passive ability to heal injuries sustained in battle. Through the constant flux of their mutating bodies, wounds slowly regenerate over time, allowing them to withstand even the most grievous of injuries. This innate regenerative capability, fueled by their potent magical reserves, ensures that they can endure prolonged conflicts with resilience and fortitude, emerging from battle ready to face new challenges.

3. Chaos Guns

A mutation has manifested on the hands, birthing a massive tentacle creature that writhes and thrashes about, continuously unleashing random spells in all directions around the perimeter of this unit. The unpredictable nature of these spells adds an element of chaos to the battlefield, wreaking havoc on anything unfortunate enough to be caught within their range.

4.Aura Of Change

Whenever this monstrous entity lingers in an area for extended periods, the surroundings undergo turbulent changes. These alterations, whether beneficial or detrimental, occur at an accelerated rate, mirroring the deep desires of the enigmatic Raven Lord.

5.Insanity Creator

When this monstrous entity looms before its enemies, their morale shatters under the weight of horror. The mutations wrought by its presence are so ghastly that they sow seeds of doubt in their very humanity.

6.Bendable body

The bodies of this unit can contort like paper or rubber, allowing them to maneuver into any nook and cranny with ease, whether it's to dodge attacks or infiltrate a city undetected.

7.Take You Down With Me

When this unit is banished and returns to the warp, it triggers a catastrophic explosion, creating a chaotic vortex that indiscriminately draws in everything nearby, whether friend or foe. The churning maelstrom of energy devours all within its reach, tearing apart the fabric of reality itself as it seeks to consume everything in its path.

8.Thickened Hide

As a monstrous entity, this unit is often an easy target for ranged attacks due to its size. However, the skin of this unit has been hardened specifically to resist all forms of ranged assaults. Regardless of the enemy's attempts to pierce its defenses with arrows or projectiles, they will find their efforts futile as the unit advances relentlessly.

9.Titans' Size

One advantage of being a monster is their immense size. With this reward, the size of this unit has been doubled, transforming them into truly colossal beasts on the battlefield.

Accession to Daemon Prince/Princess of Tzeentch

This is limited to mortal Generals only.

Daemonhood is considered the ultimate boon bestowed upon mortals by the Blood God. It signifies ascension to a higher plane of existence, where one transcends the limitations of mortality and becomes a daemon, serving Tzeentch for eternity. However, not all who seek this divine gift are deemed worthy by the Wind Lord. Some may instead face the gruesome fate of becoming a chaos spawn, twisted and mutated by the raw energies of chaos.

For those deemed worthy of ascension, the path to daemonhood is arduous and demanding. Tzeentch does not bestow this blessing lightly, requiring those who seek it to prove their worth through deeds of unparalleled powers in magic and schemes . Only the most sneaky and intelligence followers of Tzeentch are considered for this transformation.

To qualify for the opportunity of daemonhood, a mortal must demonstrate exceptional devotion to Tzeentch and exhibit extraordinary prowess in magic. This can be achieved by fulfilling at least 1d4 of the following criteria:

1. Create at least 900,000 chaos spawn with your own powers gifted by The Architect of Fate. And you need to do this by yourself; this includes the power of machines.
2. By accumulating a total of eight Tzeentch Gifts, bestowed upon you as tokens of his favor and recognition of your dedication to the Raven Lord.
3. Create 9 unique schools of magic spread between 9 different worlds.
4. Remove and replace one god's place as the center of worship in nine worlds with Tzeentch .
5. Sacrificing a minimum of 900,000 individuals on an altar of change within a span of 9 years.
6. In each world they visit, each unit rolls 3d9. If all values of the dice are 9, then the unit has to fulfill one requirement to reach daemonhood. This option cannot substitute for options 1 to 5 and can only be used to fulfill one out of the 1d3 requirements for daemonhood.

Regardless of which requirements you or your followers have fulfilled, upon completion, the sky would turn blue, and reality would start shifting , imbuing the mortal flesh with warp energy. Transforming them into a Daemon Prince. As a Daemon Prince of Tzeentch, they receive the following benefits:

1. The unit is now immortal, unaffected by the passage of time, always in optimal shape, and their memories remain unchanged, perfectly recalled.

2. Another effect of Daemonhood is that the body of the unit has grown by at least four times its previous size. Additionally, when slain, they are instead banished to the Chaos Realm and will reappear in the mortal plane after 1d3 years has passed.
3. The transformation bestowed upon the unit often manifests as the iconic figure of a birdman, embodying the essence of avian grace and power. With a beak poised for speech or battle, talons sharp and ready to rend, and wings spread wide in majestic flight.
4. Normally, a Daemon Prince is bound to the will of the Tzeentch whims and plans. However, in this case, this unit has retained its autonomy.
5. Tzeentch powers run deep within the very essence of the unit's being. As a result, any and all abilities granted by the Lord Of Change have been greatly enhanced. At the very minimum, you can now go toe-to-toe with a Lord of Change without any issue in terms of magic.
6. As Daemon Princes, they retain any Tzeentch Gifts they received while still mortal. However, they cannot roll again in the infantry section. In return, upon ascension, this unit receives four Tzeentch Gifts for free in any sections that fit the criteria to also remove any 1d3 Nothing gifts it may have gotten and is now completely immune from gaining any more of Nothing gifts instead they must reroll . Additionally, their limit of Tzeentch gifts that they can receive has been increased to 16.
7. All possible equipment and mounts that this unit has access to have been upscaled to fit the new size of its body. For example, the Disk of Tzeentch that it was riding has now grown to the size of an elephant.
8. The unit's very presence in the mortal realm shall become a beacon for mortal men to fall into corruption, as these Champions of Tzeentch prove that immortality is within their grasp. Those who wish to attain such power will follow the will of the Raven Kings without hesitation.
