

Frame Arms: Girls!

Based on the original Frame Arms line, Frame Arms Girl features the robots from that line portrayed as anthropomorphic girls, known as F.A. Girls for short, who can be equipped with various armor and weapon parts, including those from the Frame Arms and M.S.G weapon series. The line was designed by Humikane Shimada, based on Takayuki Yanase original mech designs.

The anime follows a girl named Ao Gennai who is sent a prototype F.A. Girl known as Gourai and is tasked with helping her gather data on both battle and emotions. The two soon encounter more F.A. Girls, who Gourai battles against while also having various adventures alongside.

Frame Arms Girls gain data on emotions and battle capabilities by taking part in battles inside a simulated space when two or more girls stand upon connected “Session Bases”, doing so creates a semi custom battlefield in which the girls battle using their weapons, armor, and skills to seek victory over one another and grow as individuals.

Weapons and equipment is created and constructed from model kits commonly known as gunpla or MSG (Modelling Support Goods) and enters the battle session either by being equipped at the beginning or by being scanned in during the battle with the quality of the weapon or armor and its capabilities being directly linked to how well the model maker does in creating the it with poorly painted or badly crafted weapons and armor being of poorer quality than masterfully crafted pieces.

You will be spending the next ten years here so to help you acclimatize you are being given +1000 CP. Spend it well.

Backgrounds

Your age is determined by your background, your gender is what you come in as or you may choose your gender for free if you wish.

Drop in: Just dropped off here in without the slightest hint of a background to help you get on, the plus side is you also don't have any problems going in. Lucky you? Age: ? (As a drop in your age is largely up to you though you may roll 1d8+14 if you wish to go along with a new age.)

Model maker: A maker of scale recreations, gunpla, and other small action figures, you have quite a bit of practice making weapons and tools for tiny and yet awesome plastic replicas of all kinds. Some may call you an otaku, others an hobbyist, you know however that modelling is a labour of love and see yourself as a true artist. During your time here you may find yourself paired with a Frame Arms Girl to battle with, or not, who knows what will happen? Age: roll 1d8+14 to determine your age, certain age ranges may still be in school! Have fun with that!

Frame Arms Girl: You are a 6 inch tall robotic girl made from plastic and hardware and equipped with an artificial intelligence capable of learning and recreating the emotional responses of humans. You start with the intelligence and emotional understanding of at least a 10 year old child (though if you fancy yourself smarter and more adjusted than this you will not be "nerfed"). You seek to find an owner who will equip you with better gunpla so you may do battle with your sisters and learn more about emotions and battle. If you wish (or if you are not already) you may change your gender to female at no charge, or if you do not wish to be female and still take this background you may instead either be a prototype male version of the line or the standard Frame Arms model core (often called the robot skeleton) Age: ? (Physically you appear 16, Chronologically you were created a few days ago, emotionally and mentally most of your kind are 10 years old, though since you are made of plastic this makes little difference)

Scientist: Ah you are not just anyone! You are actually a scientist from the Factory Advance Company, creators of the Frame Arms Girl line of artificially intelligent toys and the session bases they utilize and the phone apps that control it all. You must truly be a genius to be part of the team creating these wonders. Your background as a researcher and engineer is well known around these parts. Age: Roll 1d8+20 for your age.

Location

Japan! The story takes part in a small town in Japan (and specifically in or around Wakaba Girls School and the surrounding city). If you choose you may start in another location, though I would not expect much to happen at first.

Perks!

Drop In

Fun Personality (100) It seems you are a very likeable person jumper, something about your personality just makes people want to be around you and you find it exceedingly easy to make friends. I can't quite put my finger on what it is though, maybe it's your bubbly personality, your steely penetrating gaze, or your unbridled enthusiasm? What if you don't have any of those? Then I don't know why so many people want to be your friend. Its weird.

Lucky You (200) Wow you are lucky, how lucky you ask? Lucky enough that a robot could accidentally land on your doorstep because a crow attacked its courier, lucky enough that you could activate said robot just by fumbling around with it even though thousands of the model have been shipped out and nobody else has figured out how to activate theirs yet, lucky enough that the company which sent the robot would probably decide to keep it as a free sample, yeah that lucky.

Robots Best Friend (400) some people just get along really well with others, some get along really well with animals, you? You get along really well with robots, any form of thinking machine just takes a liking to you upon meeting you, even simple computers tend to work better around you though this shows the most when you are around sapient machines as you will find that they positively adore you, wish to befriend you, and actively seek to not disappoint you.

Teaching Feelings (600) Love, Hate, Joy, Pain, Happiness, Sadness, Reassurance, and anxiety. There are so many emotions both good and bad and to a machine such a thing is highly confusing, that is one of the reason the Frame Arms Girls were sent out to various people to battle. The core reason was to gather data and teach the girls different emotions and to help them grow. You are just the type of person to do that, you can teach a machine all about emotions both good and bad and help them grow into real people all of their own simply by spending time with and caring for them helping them from blank slate till they grow into fully realised people. Similar in a way to how children grow and learn and adjust depending on how they are treated while growing the machines you teach will also develop personalities dependant on how you raise them. Raise them with love please, so that they may live a happy life.

Modeller

Detail Work (100) The difference between a good modeller and a mediocre modeller is their attention to detail. You have a very discerning eye and a very steady hand which makes you capable of painting some amazingly detailed work at a very tiny scale.

Custom Parts Maker (200) Sometimes what you want doesn't really exist as a ready to build kit, for those times it takes more than just a steady hand to craft tiny miracles. You have the patience and ability to craft perfect scale replicas of nearly anything using nothing more than a block of plastic, some glue, and an exacto knife. This comes from a combination of a vivid imagination and a great memory that allows you to visualize exactly what you want to build and how to build it (when it comes to scale models at least). You could build a perfect scale model of just about anything you wished, though it would be a custom job.

Kitbashing King (400) Sometimes what you want just isn't available, sometimes building it yourself is too much hassle, and sometimes what you want is actually part of another kit. Good news for you that you are a master at kitbashing, taking parts from preexisting model kits and creating aesthetically pleasing and functional parts for your current project is a breeze and you may find that this skill is not limited just to models as you can scrounge and repurpose parts from junk into aesthetically pleasing and functional components of anything you build.

Modular Master (600) Insert Tab A into Slot B and rotate part C23 90° while inserting into unit F12. Make sense? No? That's ok. Some people don't really need instructions, they can just tell how the pieces are supposed to go together from looking at the picture, like building a jigsaw puzzle. You are one of those people, you can tell how something is supposed to be put together simply by seeing a picture of it as if you have some sort of strange innate power. The applications to gunpla and models should be obvious, the applications outside of modeling should also be self evident (such as if you need to fix a roomba that some overly enthusiastic FA: Girls broke).

Frame Arms Girl

Please make me Better (100) A valuable part of growing as a person is knowing where you are lacking and improving in those areas. Thankfully you know how to be honest with yourself and can easily pinpoint where you need to focus your efforts in order to grow as a person or in your chosen field, for example you may wish to be better in battle and realize you are too heavily focused on long range to be viable at close range, knowing this you can easily rectify the situation training or getting some new close range gear.

Fast learner (200) Some people are quick on the uptake but you are flat out lightning fast! You easily learn new things and quickly learn how to apply the things you have learned. You can go from knowing next to nothing about fighting to being relatively passable with a weapon over the course of a single fight for example simply by using it a small number of times while under pressure. You only become more proficient with the things you learn with time.

Shock Therapy (400) Sometimes people develop a trauma due to a certain situation happening to them, when such happens this person may lock up or experience the inability to do things they commonly do. When such a trauma occurs there are many ways to help the person get over it, one such way is to give them shock therapy. (Except not the kind with things like electrodes or batteries). Your version of shock therapy is altogether more pleasant for everyone involved, you simply have to give the recipient a full on kiss on the lips, doing such has the possibility of overloading their brains causing them to pass out which will relieve their tension and ease any lingering mental issues and traumas they may have (extreme cases may require multiple sessions of shock therapy).

Battle Maiden (600) You were made to battle, to fight against your sisters and see who is strongest but also to grow emotionally as you do so. You can cause others to grow emotionally too, becoming better people and fostering long lasting friendships just by taking part in a fight with them. While this won't cause a monster to become a saint it will slowly help make them and you into a more well adjusted person and make them more interested in becoming friends with you the more often and longer you fight. A good battle can lead to a great friendship.

Scientist

Gotta love your job (100) You know those people who get up every day dreading what is ahead of them? You are not one of those people. You find that you can actually enjoy yourself doing a job well even if it can be tedious at times. This helps you to be happy so long as you have some sort of job to do, whether that job be battling with the miniature people you helped create, spending long nights coding, or just sweeping up the place. No matter what you choose to do just doing a good day's work just seems to improve your disposition and make you a bit happier.

Analytical (200) You have a mind like a steel trap able to crunch numbers and see connections at an amazing rate, this allows you to sift through large amounts of data at a time to find usable information to achieve your goals, you are so good at it in fact that people may begin wondering if you are a computer yourself!

A Child's Love (400) Like some scientists you really put your heart and soul into your work (figuratively speaking) and it shows, your creations absolutely love you (provided they can feel love) as if they were your own children and would never turn against you, even outside forces couldn't make them harm you without completely erasing their entire programming. Please be kind to your creations as they are your children too.

Miracle Maker (600) The crowning achievement of Factory Advance are the Frame Arms Girls, they battle with massive explosions inside their session bases using weapons that would be mere toys outside of them, they fly and move using nothing more than plastic armor, and some of them can actually feel emotions and learn and grow. You now also know how to create such marvels as the Frame Arms Girls and the electronic equipment they use. Able to create fully realised (if a bit naive and mentally young) beings that move and think and feel all on their own. You can make miracles with enough work and it shows.

Items

All backgrounds receive a 400 cp stipend to spend on items only. Companions do not receive this stipend.

General

Smartphone (100, 1 free to everyone including companions) A smartphone complete with complimentary Factory Advance App for collecting data from your Frame Arms Girl. If lost or damaged it will turn up within a week good as new. Always has a signal and never needs charging.

Non AS Frame Arms Girl (50, 1 Free all non Frame Arms Girl) An unactivated Frame Arms Girl who of your choosing. Comes with a set of armor, a charger, a session base, and a weapon of your choice. If you are a FA: Girl you may choose to have this companion also be a copy of yourself with an optional palette swap of their hair and gear. Unlike the companion version this FA: Girl does not come with AS software installed meaning they only move, think, and react with precoded personalities and do not learn from new things or grow as people like the AS models do. Whereas the other Frame Arms Girls may as well be small people these are clever dolls who do not react well to things outside of their preprogrammed subroutines. These are the earliest models of FA: Girls and as such they don't have the same capabilities as the later AS coded models but they are still cute.

Doll Sized Apartment Complex (50) Okay so while it isn't really an apartment complex, it is a shelf with each unit being big enough to fit a single bedroom in each unit provided you are only 6 inches tall. Wonderful accommodations if you are a palm sized person or if you simply want a place to store your figures, comes with a big box of various odds and ends that can be used to decorate each unit to fit your tastes as well.

Lifetime Supply of Stickers! (50) A wide assortment of stickers in all shapes and sizes, a seemingly limitless amount of them. Perfect for sprucing up that old charging station or playing pranks on your friends at the sleepover. Wait you want to use these as weapons? Well I suppose you could hurl them at peoples face...

Delivery Drone (50) A delivery drone capable of lifting up to 10 lbs at a time. Easily able to fly for hours without jostling or dropping a package or needing a recharge. Can be directed through preprogrammed orders to drop off packages or manually piloted via remote if lost or damaged it will be returned good as new to your warehouse within a week. Watch out for crows!

MSG FRAME ARMS UNITS! (50) Kotobukiya's MSG (Model Support Goods) kits are perfect equipment for any frame arms girl!, able to be configured in a myriad of different alternative ways from melee weapons to cannons to armor and now you have the entire line! You may wonder why such an amazing deal is priced so low? Because they are plastic. Tiny small little plastic weapons. Have fun!

Summer Kimono! (50) A soft, luxurious, beautiful summer kimono colored and patterned to your liking and guaranteed to be maximum comfy. If lost or damaged it will return to your warehouse within a week cleaned and good as new again. Many women wear these to the yearly fireworks festival, it adds a feeling of class and refinement to whoever wears it. Will fit no matter what size you are.

A Lavish Mansion (50 or 200) A lavish mansion complete with all the amenities and creature comforts one would expect and fully stocked with all manner of furniture and even a full set of fine china, silver, and dishware. Ornately carved wood adorns the stairways and lavish chandeliers hang from the ceiling granting a feeling of posh high class construction. Wonderful in every way, except that it is only about three feet tall. Basically it's a very expensive dollhouse, if you wish you may instead get this mansion in a different style, maybe you prefer a ultramodern look? A small castle fortress? A townhome? It is the same price no matter what you choose. A bit too big to fit in a doll house? Well then you can pay 200 cp instead of 50 and get the full life sized version instead which will place itself where you wish at the beginning of each jump or become a warehouse attachment at your discretion. Should your doll house be destroyed it will be replaced within the week inside your warehouse good as new. Should your full sized home be destroyed, get renters insurance cause that stuff is expensive.

Drop In

Roomba (100) A small robot specialized in cleaning, this model even comes with a recording option that allows it to listen to you the make mixtapes of all the words it hears then playing them back in its own order to make sentences (no it isn't possessed and no it isn't alive, it simply does this to make its owner feel less lonely as it zooms around the house). It does a wonderful job cleaning, does not require batteries, and if broken or lost it will reappear in you warehouse good as new in a matter of days. (Also comes with a support vehicle mode that can ferry your FA: Girls around town if you wish) Comes in the color of your choice. May or may not be sapient, definitely has a sense of humor.

Job (200) A regular Job from a local tech company... sort of. You instead receive a small amount of cash weekly equalling roughly the same amount as a standard part time jobs pay along with bonuses for sending consumer data to them via your phone. This means every time you do anything with your FA: Girl you get a bonus, send in consumer thoughts on the models? Get a bonus, teach your FA: Girl the meaning of love? That is a big bonus.

Apartment Complex (400) Your very own small but spacious apartment complex! Each apartment comes fully equipped with all the amenities and your personal Apartment comes with a tv (gets local channels and news from your current world), a kitchen and fridge (stocked with food daily), a couch and a bed! (Both are super comfy!) Appears in a location of your choice at the beginning of the jump. It has roughly enough rooms to comfortably house around 300 people.

A School for Girls (600) Somehow (I'm not sure how yet) it seems you have been made the dean of your very own girls school, this school teaches the basic classes as they would be taught in a japanese high school though you can add classes if you wish. Comes complete with swimming pool, track and field, large library, baseball diamond, and soccer field. Basically everything you need to teach a large amount of students is included and you hold the deed to the school and its surrounding areas. This school can be placed in an area of your choosing once per jump where it will start gathering students and faculty qualified to teach there. If you wish the current faculty can become followers though they are not valid as companions for import. Does not come with dorms, but I'm sure you can figure something out.

Modeller

Holy Nippers! (100) A set of modelling nippers crafted in a region famous for blades and metalworking, these nippers have a zero degree edge that makes it so that any model racks nipped with these result in absolutely no leftover nubs, one would not be wrong in calling these legendary. They shimmer slightly in the light. Comes in optional gold or silver variants.

Modelling Supplies (200) Paints! Glues! Polishing equipment and a fine selection of tweezers! This kit is all you need to be a professional model maker. All paint refills once a week and comes in literally every color of the crayon rainbow. Buy now and you also receive bottles of paint remover and line markers for extra effects!

Custom Model Line (400) Lucky you! You get to design a custom line of models such as gundams, frame arms, or hexa gear sets here in the real world. This set can take the form of anything you want provided it is made of plastic and made in the standard model style (meaning it can be assembled from parts in a model kit). The best part? All the weapons and armor may be freely mixed and matched with existing model sets making it perfect for use by a frame arms girl. Want to import a mech you already own to make a line of models based on it? You may do so free of charge making its parts also compatible with the frame arms system. You receive a small amount of money for every kit sold of this model.

Hobby Shop (600) The holy mecca! Stocked with shelf upon shelf of gunpla, models, frame arms, and many other model kits. Turns a small profit every month and the shelves are always stocked with the latest models based on your current settings technology and entertainment (such as cartoons or war machines). You hold the deed to this hobby shop and can place it at a location of your choice once per jump.

Frame Arms Girl

Charger-Kun! (100) A vaguely human shaped charger which can be configured into a bed or a chair, simply plug yourself in with the extendable cable and lie back to recharge your tired batteries. Comes in a color of your choice, they can move on their own to do simple tasks like hold your armor or help set up a battle session, or clean, they can even carry your stuff and give you a massage if you wish!

Battle Basics (200) A Session Base, Armor set, and weapon of your choice. Choose whether you wish for your gear to be focused on Aerial, Aquatic (nope not aquatic, FA: Girls are NOT waterproof though you could go into the water during a battle session just fine) or Ground based battle as well as melee or ranged focus. For example Stylet and Baselard are long range aerial models, Gourai is a ground based ranged model, Materia are ground based melee specialists. Your armor and weapon come in whatever color you wish.

Expanded Armor/Set Vehicle (400) A set of armor created just for you in a style of your choice this armor and weaponry can be transformed into a vehicle as well when needed (although it must be removed for it to do that first) when equipt it grants the user abilities similar to what the vehicle would possess for instance a jet would fly while a motorcycle would be able to drive allowing you to fly while the armor is equipt or zoom around on wheels of the motorcycle. If you wish you may import a vehicle you own to be made into an armor model set and granting it the ability to be broken down into armor as well as reassembled as a vehicle. Imported vehicles can range from motorcycles, to jets, to spacecraft, to mechs. Importing grants a scale model that can be used specifically for your use as armor or a drivable vehicle (generally the size of a car or motorcycle in relation to you).

Sisters! (600) Ok not exactly, it seems there is a lot of you running around. They share your looks and general personality but only the powers you have here, think of them as production models of yourself. They don't have all your capacities but there are a lot of them, where you are the prototype they are the consumer model and there are hundreds of them. They all look up to you and generally do what you want though how they will grow after they are activated depends on their environment. You now have control of a small factory that creates Frame Arms Girls Model: Jumper and all proceeds go to you, you may change the programming if you choose but the base code that allows them to learn and battle will remain the same unless you have some serious programming skills. While not companions they can follow you if you so wish though please remember that they are only 6 inches tall and made out of plastic (even if the plastic is amazingly pliable and realistic as if it were real skin)

Scientist

Diploma (100) A diploma from a prestigious college or university proving your credentials, anyone who sees this will agree that you know your stuff within your given field of study.

Trusty Computer (200) A Laptop computer with a size and aesthetic style of your choice that boasts an amazing amount of storage space as well as preloaded software for designing toys and computer programs of all kinds. If broken or lost it will return to you good as new within a week. This baby always has a connection to the local internet, is unhackable, and never needs recharging, everything a growing toy designer needs!

Laboratory! (400) A fully loaded laboratory perfect for creating new technology in! It has everything you need including testing facilities and an online product reviewer section for any new products you happen to create. This facility is rather large and has an on sight staff that positively loves their jobs. Defaults to making toys though you can change that if you wish. The workers will not follow you but ones with similar skill sets will replace them each jump. You can choose whether you want the lab to be imported into each setting or if you wish it to become a warehouse attachment as you wish.

Toy Company(+600) A small tech company specializing in electronic toys and models has become yours, though it is only a small company at this time it will quickly grow if you put the effort in. It generates a steady stream of revenue and comes complete with its own research and development department and small manufacturing wing. Easily enough to create an entire line of toys. Nowhere near the size of Factory Advance but still rather respectable all things considered, it doesn't produce anything yet but given a couple weeks of designing you could produce some rather nice toys for distribution. Comes with a line of high tech delivery drones (beware of crows).

Companions

Frame Arms Girl (AS Equipped) (100, 1 Free all non Frame Arms Girl) An unactivated Frame Arms Girl who of your choosing. Comes with a set of armor, a charger, a session base, and a weapon of your choice. If you are a FA: Girl you may choose to have this companion also be a copy of yourself with an optional palette swap of their hair and gear. This version of FA: Girl comes with AS software installed giving them the ability to learn from new situations and fully develop their own personality. They also receive 600 cp to spend on perks and items.

Custom Companion (100, 1 free for Frame Arms Girl background) A person ideal for you who lives in the area, they come with the background of your choice along with 600 cp to spend as they wish. For FA: Girls this will be your master/owner for the duration of your stay. You don't have to stay with them but they will be a big help if you do.

Companion Import (50 cp for 1 or 200 cp for up to 8) Import a companion! They gain a background of your choice as well as 600 cp to spend on perks and items.

Drawbacks

No Pain No Gain, taking one of these grants you added cp in exchange for added suffering. There is no limit to how many you can take.

Emotionally Stunted (+100) Most Frame Arms Girls come preloaded with the emotional maturity of a ten year old child and must learn emotions via their interactions with other after being activated. Now you have this same preloaded status! You have the emotional maturity of a standard ten year old with all that entails and though you may learn and grow into maturity its going to take a lot of effort on someone's part.

Sadist (+100) you have an odd attraction to causing pain in others, most times it does not manifest except in specific situations (such as if you get in a fight or if you are fatigued) but when it does manifest your behavior is extreme. It's bad enough that while you can be a perfect angel 9 times out of 10 that small amount of time when you are indulging is what everyone will think of when they see you.

Chuuni Ninja (+100) Ok maybe not a ninja exactly but certainly some form of historical warrior. Something about historical dramas got stuck in your head long ago and now you speak as if you were straight out of a historical documentary and may actually think you are a ninja/knight/aztec warrior/what have you. This colors everything you do and it is highly cringe inducing.

Addicted to Charger Punishment (+100 FA: Girls only) You have found that everyone thinks you are addicted to what Gourai calls the charger punishment, a practice where the charger is plugged in and removed from your port which causes mixed amounts of pleasure to the one it is happening to. Whether or not this is true everyone will think of you as odd and slightly lewd for supposedly taking part in this practice.

Electrical Problems (+100) Session Battles are power hungry things, just a single match can be enough to blow all the fuses in a standard apartment building if it gets crazy enough. Sadly for you your battles are indeed that crazy. While not every battle you have results in a power outage it will happen at least once a week with you having to make multiple trips to get fuses and replace circuits after a match kills your circuits if you wish to have any electrical power. It isnt exactly dangerous, but it is damn annoying and no matter how good the generator or circuit breaker or fuses you have installed it just keeps happening.

Ditz (+200) You are an airhead, bluntly speaking you really are a ditz. You always forget what you are doing and get yourself into trouble on the regular, not only that but you are also attracted to shiny objects like some sort of magpie stealing and creating a nest out of shiny objects whenever you can.

Lazy Bones (+200) Gee don't you ever get up on time? You are always oversleeping, even if you are a robot you spend an inordinate amount of time lounging on your charging station. The majority of your time is spent asleep and whenever you you can sneak a couple winks in you will. Don't expect to be keeping any strict time limits or dates because oversleeping is the name of the game!

Dear Diary (+200) Some people have inner monologues, some people build gunpla, some go and play imagination games. You however have a diary (or journal) that you write everything in. Every cringey poem you have ever written (and there will be lots), every idea and embarrassing moment in your life, and every black mark on your history is written here and now it has landed in the hands of some gossips! Your secrets have spread around town, I hope you enjoy hearing people quote your bad poetry. Is the mental trauma worth it?

Goats! (+200) why are there so many goats around? What are you doing stop trying to pet it! Seems like once a week any time you go outside you will run into some goats that you just feel the need to touch, not only that but they really like you too! So much so that they always try to lick you. Yeah you are going to end up completely covered in wet, sticky, disgusting goat spit a lot.

Paranoia (+300) Maybe one of your friends was kidnapped once or maybe you lost someone you loved, however it happened you have vowed never to be caught unawares again as you try to make sure nobody is sneaking up on you, that nobody is watching you, that nothing is hiding just out of sight. You can feel them watching you, their eyes resting on you somewhere you cant see them. You know they are there! Bluntly put you are extremely paranoid, to an obscene degree, this can actually be very detrimental to every part of your life as you are constantly in a state of high alert. Without someone there to help you things are going to be rough for your stay here.

Bills (+300) You know what sucks? Working hard for your money and then having to spend it all on bills (well I say bills but it could just as easily be a friend of yours spending all your money without your knowledge to buy doll furniture). Your free cash is now virtually zilch as you have somehow accumulated a massive amount of debt leaving you with just enough money to get by if you are constantly working, if you are a FA: Girl this means that you will be fighting as often as possible just to help your master scrape by with very little free time to do things you actually enjoy, and you may as well forget about getting new parts to help you in battle.

Glitch! Trauma! A Broken Winged Bird! (+300) Well this is odd, it seems there is someone in your life that flat out causes your body to glitch, when they get close to you it makes you freeze up and turn a bright red, your heart starts beating faster, your knees grow weak, and you may just fall down while being unable to talk. Quite the strange glitch you have there. It would be ok if they didn't wind up being around you all the time causing your day to day life to be impaired every time they show up.

The End

The end has come, your ten years are up, what do you plan on doing now?

Move on- To the next adventure!

Stay- You like it here, you think you might stay.

Go home- take your powers and stuff and go home. Have a wonderful life!

Notes

Made by Aionon

How do FA: Girls work? Nanobots. Not joking, they have nanobots in them. It's possible that programming can go screwy causing an overflow and making these nanobots run rampant driving the FA: Girl insane, though you will not have to worry about that if you are one.

Frame Arms Girls can be damaged in battle, if they are damaged during the jump they can be sent back to Factory Advanced via drone simply by calling for a repair drone via your phones app, after the jump this drone will still be available to take your FA: Girl in for repairs. How does that work? I don't know it just does.

What kind of gunpla/models are compatible with FA: Girls for battle and upgrades? Basically anything made by kotobukiya, the anime actually has their commercials playing on the tv at some points during the show and they use many of the MSG sets for battle. Also irl all Kotobukiya models have compatible parts.

Version 1.1 changes

Added note that your faculty can become followers in all girls school and that it does not have dorms.

Fixed hex guard, it was supposed to be hexa gears