Go Home

Deciding that you miss your family, making this jump your last, maybe is it due to you lounging for your family.

Continue

Onwards to the next jump leaving behind your friends and comrades you made for more power.

Notes

- Time looping, should you can get orstead to teach you the spell, it will be counted as 1-up that should you die you would start again at the beginning of the jump and this can only be used one per jump or every ten years post-chain.
- Any drawback indented after another means that you can only take that drawback having taken its parent, for example you can only take a long way to the top if you also take bound.
- Yes, stacking clairvoyance and absorption into the same eye will increase the range of absorption, stacking the abilities of an eye creates some neat combos, for instance clairvoyance+ x-ray+ magic power eye would be similar the byakugan with a range of hundreds to thousands of miles.
- Taking curse of hatred with green hair means that people will be driven to a mad, hysterical fury at the sight of you.
- There are several drawback combos that are near certain death, but most of them involve infancy, for instance curse of hatred + infancy is pretty much immediately fatal.
- Magic in this world has seven ranks
  - Elementary: Basic mana manipulation.
  - Intermediate: Advanced mana manipulation.
  - Advance: Complex mana manipulation. This conveys a mastery of the basics, both in magic and sword style.
  - Saint: Large scale complex mana manipulation. Usually spells that affects the weather.
  - King: High amount of mana with complex manipulation.
  - Emperor: Very high amount of mana with specific manipulation.
  - God: Continental scale magic. Maps get changed when you use this stuff.

- Sword techniques follow a similar naming schema as the magic ranks listed above, however, where a mage capable of casting saint ranked water magic is referred to as a water-saint ranked mage, a swordsman of the water god style who can use saint ranked sword techniques is called a water saint, there is only one god of each style and typically one to two emperors beneath them.
- On healing magic as far healing goes from healing scratches to regenerating limbs, but it'll never bring the dead back to life, antidote is about curing poison and sickness, but at higher levels can allow you to craft poisons and afflict status effects, barrier raises your defense, makes for good walls, however it can also protect against pain and can even increase the body's natural healing, divine attack is magic tuned to do the most damage against evil spirits and beasts, and is also the most coveted and rare; best not to flash it around.
- How to Train Your Magic: There are two ways to grow your magic, one is to use it till exhaustion, much like a muscle, and the other is to strain it with complexity. At first it will be easier to make a fist sized ball of mana than to make a single snow-flake. You'll have to keep pushing the complexity to tire yourself out as well though.
- Orstead's curse drawback, the dragon god orstead possesses his own curse of hatred. jumpers no matter which origin are exempted for this due to them being extra dimensional origin or someone not from this world.
- Miko are another mana oddity, so essentially, magic beasts in this world can either be born from other magic beasts or be mutated from ordinary animals, normally humans and other sapient beings are immune to this, except for rare cases where you get a miko.
- All-Seeing eye sees in hundreds of miles in all directions at once, but you'll still have to move it around to search the world, its mana cost varies from the equivalent of casting a king ranked spell to casting an emperor ranked spell, obviously, unless you have relevant perks from other jumps, getting used to seeing in all directions for hundreds of miles will take a great deal of time and effort to grow accustomed to.
- Jumper Eyes perk, just to be clear, you can give a copy of any eye you possess, not just the ones from this jump, if you want to do nothing but change someone's eye color to yours in the absolutely most painful manner possible, you can.
- The Seven World Powers and You! A Guide to the Most Powerful Beings in Existence: The Seven World Powers are in order of strongest to weakest:
  - 1. Technique God
  - 2. Dragon God
  - 3. Fighting God
  - 4. Demon God
  - 5. Death God
  - 6. Sword God
  - 7. North God
- As a rule, anyone capable of casting king ranked spells or known as [blank]-king in a sword school can turn the tide in a battle, emperor ranked can turn the tide of a war, and god ranked, well, god ranked is just some silly shit. like, so powerful that they don't even fit into this setting, as in, "go back to fighting frieza, orstead, what are you even doing here anyway!?"

- The gap in power is pretty tremendous from emperor to god, but even in the god ranked seven world powers, the gap between the dragon god orstead and the fighting god may as well be the gap between an elementary ranked magician and emperor ranked magician, the technique god and the demon god are actually both halves of the dark dragon god laplace, who literally shattered planes of existence, and even when split apart takes both the number one and the fourth spot on the list of most powerful people. but even when not talking about the bonkers top half of this list, former world powers have done feats like: split the continents apart; and, carve several hundred miles of road through a forest and a mountain with one divine magic spell, incidentally the magic in that divine magic spell still holds off magic beasts from attacking travelers several thousand years later, no wonder they still worship the guy who did it.
