- Survivor Physique (400):
  - You now have the physique of a survivor, giving you enough strength, endurance and pure fitness to survive on an island alone. - Beer Grylls (600):
  - You are now able to improvise, adapt and overcome, having been trained in unarmed combat, desert and winter warfare, survival, climbing, parachuting, and explosives. The most important bit of that being the survival part. You are now a master survival expert.

Island mods:

• Size increase (50):

 You can now increase the size of the island, doubling in size with every purchase.

• Fed Ex boxes (free):

You will randomly have fed-ex packages appear on the island, giving you random items. Most of the time the items will be useful, and sometimes they won't. This can grant you anything from packs of different spices to a door for a car. Anything that has been sent via a fed-ex package ever can drift ashore, with more beneficial items being more usual.

• Fresh Water (200):

 The island now has a source of cold freshwater from an underground source. It's completely clean and will never run out, and is guaranteed to both taste good and make you feel refreshed.

• Washing pond and waterfall (100):

The island now has a large and deep source of water with a waterfall, making it the perfect natural shower and bath, with enough space for 5 people to wash and get clean at the same time.

• Doctor's in (free):

You are not alone on the island. This green-eyed brunette was also on the plane with you, and only survived thanks to your intervention. Due to this, she is filled with gratitude towards you and will help you so that both of you can survive on this island. She used to be a doctor, having spent many years in the field of natural disasters and other horrible situations, dealing with wounds and sickness with little resources. All this experience and knowledge will be used by her to help you on the island, and she will know how to best use the medicinal herbs, if you add that mod to the island. If that wasn't enough, she is also an incredible chef, able to take a few ingredients along with salt and only a bonfire, an then create an incredible meal. After surviving the plane crash, she realized that she has spent most of her life studying and working, not enough living, and therefore seeks to change that, starting with her relationship. Despite being an incredibly attractive, fit and charismatic woman, she has literally no experience with relationships, but she is willing to try. If you accept her advances, then you will find that both of you fit together incredibly well.

• The Dentist will see you now (Free):

This tall Scandinavian beauty, with her strikingly blue eyes and blonde hair, was a dentist on the way back from a personal trip to visit some of her friends when the plane crashed. She used to be a dentist, but now is the one who deals with things that requires dexterity, like creating ropes, gutting fish and taking care of the fire. She knows how to use makeshift tools to take care of dental care, so you will never have to take care of toothache with a ice-skate by yourself. At first she didn't like you at all, but as the first few days turned to weeks, she eventually came around, starting to catch herself watching you when you weren't noticing and looking forward to you returning to her side. She won't make the first move, but once you do then you will have a woman most would die to have in their arms.

• Army vet (free):

This tan, blonde, green eyed and incredibly hot american woman is a former army veteran. She will take on the role as the leader if you don't want to, and will make sure that everything that needs to be done gets done before it's to late, either by doing it herself or by getting someone to do it. She is someone you can depend on in any situation, as she almost always have a solution for any scenario. Confident to a fault, almost nothing shocks or unbalances her. Due to her duty in the military, she never really got to have a relationship, the men she surrounded herself with never catching her fancy or desire. But something about taking care of you has made her heart beat incredibly fast and desires she has never had has started coursing through her body. Just don't mention her sizable breast until you have gotten to know one another better. She is a bit sensitive about them due to how her military buddies always commented on them.

• Childhood sweetheart (Free):

Your childhood sweetheart was heartbroken when she heard about the accident, and went out to find you herself. Unfortunately, she ended up having an accident herself and became cast away herself on the same island as you. She is immensely in love with you and only wants what's best for you, but does not have a lot of knowledge, experience or skills that will help on the island. She does however learn quickly, and will quickly become one you can depend on
