

A thousand years ago a glorious city was built by the Divinities who saw fit to bestow the gift of a peaceful and harmonious city upon the mortals in the world below, and so the glorious and magnificent city of El Dorado was created. Ever since that day people have searched for this paradise on earth, a gleaming paradise made of gold an oasis of perfection lost to the world somewhere in the jungles of the new world. Except for the people who live there El Dorado may as well be a myth only believed by fools and the gullible.

The current year is 1519, Hernan Cortez is just about to set forth on his expedition from the town of Seville in Spain to the new world and somewhere a pair of con artists are playing a game of dice for a map that may just change their destiny. The events about to unfold will be written in history either in infamy or legends. Will you be choose to be a man or a god? A teacher or a conquerer?
