QUICKSILVER-(COVER BY FUTURE QUICKSILVER, A.K.A. KOTOR ANON)

JUMPCHAIN SUPPLEMENTAL: BODYMOD

Want to look different? With this, you can change your "default" appearance for all JumpChain CYOAs. This can be taken at any point following the Pokémon Trainer CYOA. Note that your choices scale with age, so muscle definition and body build may not be as prominent depending on how young you are. If any CYOA causes you to change into a different species, you will appear as that species' equivalent body type. If you have a light, muscular build as a human, you will find that you will become that species' equivalent of a light, muscular build. Have fun with it!

To help customize your body to suit your tastes, you are given an operating budget of 500 CP

CHOOSE A BUILD

- How wide you are at the shoulders. Does not correlate to body fat or height.
- All builds are free, and do not offer any benefits besides the change in mass.

Heavy

Your height is the average for your age group depending on the age you are in the Jump.

CHOOSE A BODY TYPE

- Body types provide a base to work off of, a starting point from which you expand.
- You can skip taking a Body Type, instead using your normal body as a base.

BODYBUILDER

Prioritizing strength and constitution, a Bodybuilder hones his or her muscles to an impressive degree. Bodybuilders are usually the "big guy", focusing on dealing damage and taking it in turn. Bodybuilders can't be matched in terms of straight physical prowess, but suffer if it comes down to sheer flexibility or speed.

Bodybuilders gain two free ranks in Strength, two free ranks in Endurance, and the Height 1 perk.

ATHLETE

Athletes forego a buff physique with rippling biceps in favor of lean muscle, agility and flexibility. They can't lift as much as a Bodybuilder, but easily run circles around them. Athletes are much more suited for hit and run tactics, staying mobile and out of the line of fire. Compared to Bodybuilders, an Athlete will take much less of a licking before they stop ticking.

Athletes gain two free ranks in Speed, two free ranks in Dexterity, and the Flexibility 1 perk.

CHARMER

Charmers aren't as physically apt as the above two options, though they are no slouches. Instead, Charmers are masters of appearance. Unblemished skin, shapely bodies, stunning beauty or rugged handsomeness, Charmers are guaranteed to turn more than a few heads.

Charmers gain two free ranks in Appeal, two free ranks in Shape, and three free ranks in the Endowed perk.

BESTIAL

Fine, You want a furry option? Here's your furry option. Weirdo. Pick a real animal. Your body gains physical traits resembling that animal. Choose from one of three tiers.

0. Minor traits, e.g. ears and a tail. Easily hidden.
1. Major traits e.g. furry limbs, digitigrade legs. Human face.
2. Full Anthro, e.g. furry body, inhuman face. Still bipedal.
Each tier is harder to hide than the previous, with Full Anthro basically impossible to conceal. You'll attract lots of attention. Nonhuman racial choices in a CYOA override your furry body. Bestials gain two free Sense ranks, their tier's worth of ranks in a stat symbolizing their animal (your pick), and the Color 1 perk.
