THE SACRED STONES

JUMPCCHAIN COMPLIANT

PRESENTED BY: stupid_dog and friends!

In an age long past... evil flooded over the land. Creatures awash in the dark tide ran wild, pushing mankind to the brink of annihilation. In its despair mankind appealed to the heavens, and from a blinding light came hope. The Sacred Stones. These five glorious treasures held the power to dispel evil. The hero Grado and his warriors used the Sacred Stones to combat evil's darkness. They defeated the Demon King and sealed his soul away within the stones. With the darkness imprisoned, peace returned to the continent of Magvel. For over 800 years would this peace last...

In these times of peace, tales of past conflict have drifted into legend, and memories of the ancient dark arts have all but evaporated. It is now the year 803... In an instant, the whole of Magvel is threatened by an unexpected atrocity. The Grado Empire, the largest of the Sacred Stone nations, has invaded the kingdom of Renais under orders from Emperor Vigarde. A longtime ally of Grado, Renais is caught off guard, unable to mount any resistance. Grado's forces move quickly, seizing one territory after another. Compounding King Fado's worries, his son, Prince Ephraim, has gone missing. Grado's momentum carries its armies to the gates of Castle Renais itself.

Renais will fall... It is inevitable. But what happens next is up to you.

You receive a budget of 1000 Choice Points which you can spend on experiences, abilities, and equipment to help keep yourself alive during your stay on Magvel.

The next section is dedicated to giving you a place in the world to call your own. Here you determine your point of origin, as well as age and gender.

The continent of Magvel. For some 800 years, a quiet peace reigned in the absence of the terrible darkness. The Sacred Stones have been passed from generation to generation. Nations have been built around their power and their legacy. The kingdom of Renais, ruled by Fado, the peerless Warrior King. The kingdom of Frelia, ruled by Hayden, the venerable Sage King. The kingdom of Jehanna, ruled by Ismaire, Queen of the White Dunes. The theocracy of Rausten, ruled by Mansel, the Divine Emperor. The Grado Empire, ruled by Vigarde, the stalwart Silent Emperor. These five countries house the power of the Sacred Stones. They are joined by the emerging mercantile republic of Carcino. Roll 1d8 to determine your starting location.

1	Kingdom of Renais With its central location on Magvel it has many allies. The royal blood is said to be very pure, for some reason.
2	Kingdom of Frelia The people of Frelia are not known to act on impulse, but they are known for loyalty. Dedicated pegasi trainers.
3	Mercantile Republic of Carcino The youngest and smallest nation, ruler by a democratic council of elders. It is quite trade-oriented.
4	Theocracy of Rausten A thickly forested region renowned for their peity and grace. Founded by the hero-saint Latona.
5	Kingdom of Jehanna An arid, sandy region that is well-known for its mercenary guilds. Queen Ismaire is master of the guilds and land.
6	Grado Empire The largest single territory on Magvel. They have a exceptional military but supposedly kindhearted rulers.
7	Caer Pelyn A settlement seperated from the troubles of the world. It lies hidden in the mountains.
8	Lagdou Ruins An ancient evil is said to still slumber here, but you should be more worried about the monsters that are awake.

If you're dissatisfied with the results of fate, you can instead spend 100 CP to choose any location on Magvel.

Roll $2d8 + 14$ to determine your age.

Your gender remains unchanged.

You can select a specific starting age from 16 to 30 for the cost of 100 CP.

Though a new life brings with it a host of oppourtunities it can also influence your mind greatly. You are gaining anywhere from sixteen to thirty years of experience that will shape the way you think, your instincts, and how you respond to situations. Deep down you are still yourself, but overcoming your new personality will be harder than simply quitting a habit
